HISTORY.

In 1842, the Union Association, at its session on Cedar Creek, in Fayette county, resolved to found a great Baptist University. Rev. Wm M. Tryon, Rev. Jas. Huckins and Hon. R. E. B. Baylor were among the leaders in this move. They, with a few other kindred spirits, organized themselves into a Texas Baptist Educational Society. The first great work of this society was to the founding of the proposed Baptist University.

On the 13th of February, 1845, the society obtained from the Republic of Texas the charter of Baylor University. The school was located at Independence, in Washington county. At that time Independence was a thriving village, near the center of the population and wealth of the State.

Soon after its charter was obtained, the school was opened with Prof. Henry F. Gillett as principal. In 1847 Rev. Henry L. Graves was elected president. In 1848 the Baptist State Convention was organized and the young institution was placed under its control. A second building 50x65 feet was erected in 1850. The following year Rev. Rufus C. Burleson became president, Mr. Graves having resigned. At this time there were five teachers and fifty-three students in the school. Up to 1856 there had been only one diploma conferred. The graduating class of 1856 numbered six. The University was now quite prosperous. A Law Department was established in 1857, from which, within three years, were graduated twenty-nine young men.

In 1861 the entire faculty resigned. They moved to Waco and established Waco University with Dr. Burleson as president. Waco University was at first under the direction of Trinity River Baptist Association, but when the Baptist General Association was organized in 1868, Waco University became the denominational school of this organization. This school was very prosperous, and during the twenty-five years of its separate existence, Dr. Burleson conferred one hundred and eighty-one diplomas.

The conditions surrounding the school at Independence changed rapidly after 1861. The civil war changed the entire industrial system. Southern Texas received such an influx of foreigners as to change greatly the character of the population, and, failing to secure a railroad, Independence had become comparatively isolated and inaccessible. Rev. Geo. W. Baines served as president for one year. In 1862 Dr. Wm. Carey Crane became president. He was succeeded by Dr. Reddin Andrews. By the year 1886, Baylor University had graduated seventy-eight from the Academic Department, and thirty from the Law Department.

In 1886, Baylor University, at Independence, and Waco University were united under the name "Baylor University at Waco." The new University was located at Waco and Dr. Burleson was made president. At the same time the two general Baptist bodies were consolidated under the name "The Baptist General Convention of Texas," and Baylor University at Waco was placed under the control of this Convention. In 1897 Dr. Burleson was retired, upon full pay, from active service with the title of President Emeritus, and John C. Lattimore was made Chairman of the Faculty.

Since consolidation there have been two hundred and ten diplomas conferred, and the standard of scholarship has been steadily raised until Baylor University easily ranks with the foremost schools of the country.

REQUIREMENTS FOR DEGREES.

In the following statement of the requirements for graduation, and in describing the work of the various departments, a full course consists of the work represented by three or more recitations per week, in one subject, for twenty weeks. The value of work continuing a shorter time, or requiring fewer recitations per week, is estimated upon the basis that three hours per week for twenty weeks constitutes a full course.

For graduation with any degree forty-two full courses are required, some of which are prescribed, others must be elected within certain limitations, and the remainder may be chosen from any of the electives offered in the course which the student is pursuing. All choice of elective studies is subject to the approval of the Faculty.

The following groups set forth the character of the work leading to the various degrees:

FOR THE DEGREE OF BACHELOR OF ARTS.

Ancient Languages—Eleven courses in Latin and Greek, not less than five in either.
Mathematics—Three courses.
Natural Science—Three courses.
English—Four courses.
History and Economics—Three courses.
Philosophy—Four courses.
Electives—Sufficient to amount to fourteen courses.

FOR THE DEGREE OF BACHELOR OF SCIENCE.

Mathematics and Natural Science—Eleven courses, not less than five in either.

Latin—Two courses

English—Four courses.

History and Economics—Three courses.

Philosophy—Four courses.

Modern Languages—Four courses, of which two must be in German.

Electives—Sufficient to amount to fourteen courses.

FOR THE DEGREE OF BACHELOR OF LITERATURE.

English and History and Economics—Eleven courses, not less than five in either.

Latin—Three courses.

Mathematics—Three courses.

Natural Science Three courses.

Philosophy—Four courses.

Modern Languages—Four courses, of which two must be in German.

Electives—Sufficient to amount to fourteen courses.

In addition to the courses named above, during the Fall term there will be offered a course in educational psychology for the especial benefit of teachers, and in the Spring term a course in school management and one in moral science. Dr. Carroll's Bible work will run through the entire year. No credit will be given for any of these last mentioned courses

Credit toward graduation will be allowed for work in Music, Art, Elocution and Military Science upon the following basis: For one grade in Music, a course; for three hours per week, for twenty weeks, in Art or Elocution, one-third of a course; for six hours in Art, two-thirds of a course, for nine hours or more, one full course; for three hours per week, twenty weeks of Military drill, one-third of a course; provided, that work from all of these departments shall not be offered in lieu of more than four courses of the work of the regular academic departments

Work in these departments will be accepted only upon the recommendation of the heads of the departments.

CONDITIONS FOR HIGHER DEGREES.

The Master's degrees in Arts, Science and Literature, viz.: A. M., M S. and M. L., will be conferred by the University upon the following conditions:

1. The candidate must have received the corresponding Bachelor's degree from Baylor University, or from some other institution of high grade, in which latter case his Bachelor's course, if not equivalent to that of the University, shall have been made so by additional work.

2. He must have spent thereafter one year in resident graduate study in the University, or two years in some institution of high grade, or two years pursuing in absentia studies by correspondence in the Correspondence Department of the University.

3. He must have successfully completed, according to the preceding section, at least ten courses, selected with the approval of the Faculty, not less than five nor more than seven of which shall be in his principal department, and the others in not more than two other departments; provided: (1) That not more than two courses catalogued in the required work below the Junior year may be elected; (2) That his principal work may not be in Mathematics or Science if he is a candidate for A. M.; nor in Greek, Latin or English if for M. S.; nor in Greek, Mathematics or Science, if for M. L.; (3) That he has stood a written examination at the University, unless otherwise specially ordered, upon all the courses offered, making an average grade of at least 80 per cent. upon all and not less than 75 per cent. upon any.

4. He must have presented to the head of his principal department, at least thirty days prior to the day of graduation, a satisfactory thesis in type-written or printed copy, upon an approved theme connected with his studies in this department. The thesis, upon being accepted, becomes the property of the University.

The fees for tuition and graduation are the same as in a Bachelor's course.

Candidates for a Doctor's degree will not be accepted until further announcements are made respecting the matter.

The Honorary degrees of D. D. and LL. D. may be conferred for distinguished success in the departments of literature and work pertaining to these respective degrees.

DEPARTMENTS OF INSTRUCTION.

PHILOSOPHY.

PROFESSORS LATTIMORE AND TANNER.

The work of this department is required of all candidates for Bachelor's degrees. It is continuous, in the order here given, throughout the Junior and Senior years.

(A) Logic.—Prof. Lattimore: Lectures, recitations and praxis. Special effort will be made to train the student to careful and correct thinking himself, and also to enable him to detect the fallacies in wrong thought processes. Junior year. Full course. Fall term.

(B) Psychology.—Prof. Lattimore: James' Briefer Course will be used as a text. Supplementary lectures and parallel readings will be given. A number of simple experiments will be performed to illustrate the truths of physiological psychology. Students will be encouraged to criticise the theories of various psychologists and also to advance opinions of their own. Junior year. Full course. Spring term.

(C) Ethics.—Prof. Tanner: The course is intended to subserve both intellectual and moral ends. By making and mastering an elaborate analysis of the subject, the student will be trained in the analytic method of study. A general survey will be made of the leading theories and schools of moralists. The principal aim, however, is to have the members of the class conscientiously and fearlessly to grapple with the moral principles and issues of human life, and to construct each for himself his system of moral truth. In Theoretical Ethics special study will be made of Moral Law, Conscience, Freedom of the Will, Ultimate Ground of Obligation, Highest Good, Character. Each one will be expected to prepare a paper upon a theme connected with the study, showing ability in independent thinking. Senior year. Full course. Fall term

(D) Apologetics.—Prof. Tanner: This will be a serious, thorough course, adapted to minds disciplined in the use of moral and historical evidence. It will consist of two parts: (1) The Grounds of Theistic and Christian Belief, embracing a study of all the arguments usually presented and some others. The text book will be supplemented with parallel reading of other authors and the preparation of papers. (2) A comparative study of the World's Leading Religions, showing the relative character and claims of Christianity. Senior year. Full course. Spring term.

LATIN.

PROFESSOR GREER.

The object of the instruction in this department is to lead the student progressively to a thorough understanding of the structure of the language and an appreciative acquaintance with the various departments of its literature.

In the earlier work the linguistic feature is given prominence. The forms of words, their arrangement in clauses and phrases, together with the grouping of phrases and clauses in the sentence, are emphasized. Composition work based on the authors read is required. This is varied with blackboard and oral exercises from dictation. The Roman method of pronunciation is employed in recitation,

In the latter part of the course more attention is directed to the literary interpretation of the authors studied. Rapid reading of as wide a range of authors as is consistent with a thorough understanding of them, tends to lend interest and variety to this portion of the work. In translating Latin, faithfulness to the meaning of the original is insisted on, but, at the same time, the use of barbarous, or class-room English, is discouraged.

At present six courses in Latin are offered to undergraduate students.

(A) The Epic.—Virgil.—Four books, with a study of Dactylic Hexameter, a course of reading in Roman Mythology required of all Freshmen. Full course. Fall term.

(B) The Roman Historians.—Livy. Portions of books I, XXI.—The preface and about sixty chapters are read. Required of all Freshmen. Full course. Spring term.

(C) The Lyrics.—Odes of Horace and Ovid's Lyrics. Careful attention is given to the meter of Horace's Odes. Required of all Sophomores pursuing the A. B. and B. L. courses, elective for other Sophomores. Full course. Fall term.

(D) Tacitus, Agricola and Germania. The drama.—Reading from Plautus or Terence. Required of all Sophomores in A. B. course, elective for others. Full course. Spring term.

(E) The Satire.—Reading from Juvenal and Horace required of all Juniors in A. B. course. Elective for others. Full course. Fall term.

(F) Virgil and Cicero.—Required of Juniors in A. B. course who do not elect Greek. Elective for all others. This course is especially adapted for teachers of Latin, and those who desire to study these authors after they have acquired the power for more appreciative reading. Full course. Spring term.

GREEK.

PROFESSOR HARRIS.

The work in this department is intended to give the student an appreciative acquaintance with the best Greek authors and inspire a love for Hellenic studies. From the beginning of the course exactness will be insisted upon, and during the Freshman year special attention will be paid to Forms and the fundamental points of Syntax.

In all classes reading at sight will be practiced, and English will be put into Greek, either as a set exercise or at dictation. The course is carefully graded and students are urged to take it continuously. At suitable times there will be conferences on the Literature, History, Mythology and Art of the Greeks.

By a recent action of the Faculty, Xenophon has been made a prerequisite to entrance into the Freshman class. Of those desiring to enter this class there will be required in each case an accurate knowledge of the ordinary Attic forms and the ability to read at sight easy passages in Xenophon. The work in this department embraces the following courses:

(A) Lysias. Reading of six or more selected orations, with such attention to rhetoric and style as the advancement of the student will justify; Grammar; sight reading; English into Greek. Full course. Fall term.

(B) Homer. Reading of at least four books of the Iliad or Odyssey in class; others being assigned for private reading; the Hexameter; Homeric Syntax. Full course. Spring term.

(C) Plato. Study of the Protagoras or Apology and Crito in class with private reading of selected work; conferences on Greek Philosophy; style of Plato Full course. Fall term.

(D) The Drama. The aim will be to get an appreciation for the ancient classic drama. Plays from two of the great dramatists will be read in class and others assigned for private reading. There will be lectures on meter and development of the drama. Archæology will be briefly touched upon in connection with the theater. Full course. Spring term.

(E) Oratory. (Elective for those taking N. T. Greek.) Some orations of Demosthenes will be read in class and select orations from other orators assigned for private reading. Lectures will be given on the development of oratory, on Greek Rhetoric and on style. Full course. Fall term.

(F) History. Elective. The work in this will center around Thucydides, selected portions of which will be assigned for special study. Some portions of Herodotus will be read and discussed, In this course special stress will be put on the literature of the language and conferences will be held on this subject with illustrative readings. Full course. Spring term.

MATHEMATICS.

PROFESSORS LATTIMORE AND TANNER.

The work in Mathematics will have constantly in view the mastery of principles and ability to apply them. These results are of more value to the pupil than the mere accumulation of the facts of any science.

For admission to course (A) students must furnish satisfactory evidence, by certificate or examination, of having taken a thorough course in arithmetic and elementary algebra

The courses offered are:

(A) Higher Algebra. Quadratics, progressions, binomial theorem, logarithms, choice and chance, annuities, continued fractions, and series will be the principal subjects in this study. Full course. Fall term. Special class in spring.

(B) Solid Geometry. Especial attention will be given to the application of the principles of Geometry to the solution of original problems. Elementary principles of Conic Sections will be included in the course. Full course. Spring term. Special class fall term.

(C) Plane and Spherical Trigonometry. Emphasis will be placed upon the derivation of formulæ, and the solution of practical problems in mensuration and sailing. Full course. Fall term.

(D) Surveying. Especial attention will be given to actual field work. The class will survey and plot a number of fields selected by the teacher. Two-thirds course. Spring term.

(E) Analytic Geometry. The principal subjects in the elements of both Plane and Solid Analytic Geometry will be studied. Full course. Spring term.

(F) Differential and Integral Calculus. A careful study of the fundamental problems of the Calculus will be followed by numerous applications in practical problems in geometry and mechanics. Full course. Fall term.

(G) Astronomy. The class will take up the subject as presented in Young's General Astronomy. The class will spend a number of evenings doing actual field work. Full course. Spring term.

(H) Mechanics. The course will be quite practical, and will include the solution of a large number of problems in equilibrium, friction, gravity, velocity and projectiles. Full course. Fall term.

NATURAL SCIENCES.

PROFESSOR CHARLTON.
MR. BATTLE, Assistant.

CHEMISTRY.

(A) Remsen's Chemistry (Briefer Course) with Laboratory work. Full course. Fall term. Repeated during Spring term.

(B) Qualitative analysis and lectures. Includes brief course of blowpipe work on minerals. Full course. Spring term.

PHYSICS.

Prerequisite Trigonometry.

(A) MASS PHYSICS. I. Kinematics. II. Dynamics. III. Work and Energy. IV. Attractive and Potential. V. Properties of Matter. VI. Sound.

MOLECULAR PHYSICS. Heat. Full course. Spring term.

(B) PHYSICS OF THE ETHER. I. Radiant Energy. II. Electrostatics. III. Magnetism. IV. Current Electricity. Full course Fall term.

ZOOLOGY.

(A) Invertebrate Zoology with laboratory work. Two-thirds course. Fall term.

(B) Vertebrate Zoology with laboratory work. Two-thirds course. Spring term.

(C) Mammalian Anatomy with Lectures. Two-thirds course. Fall term.

BOTANY.

(A) Elementary Botany with laboratory work on the flowering plants and lectures on the physiology of plants. Full course. Spring term.

(B) I. Short course in Ecology. II. Laboratory work in Cryptogamic Botany with lectures. Full course. Fall term.

GEOLOGY.

(A) Using LeConte's Elements. To each member of the class will be assigned a special topic for investigation. Full course. Fall term.

Lectures on Geography.—Twenty lectures on Geography, elective for collegiate students. Students taking the course and passing an examination thereon will receive credit for one-third course. Fall term.

Three hours of laboratory work may at any time be required instead of one recitation.

Students will be charged the actual cost of materials used in laboratory work and for breakage.

The chemical laboratory is fitted up with suitable tables, supplied with gas, water, bowls, waste-pipes, Bunsen burners and chemicals for the use of students in General Chemistry and Qualitative Analysis.

In both Zoology and Botany use is made of compound microscopes, and full notes and detail drawings are required. Ample facilities are provided for the complete dissection of plants and typical animals, such as the cat, pigeon, turtle and starfish.

Facilities in this department have been improved by the enlargement of the museum and the addition of valuable reference works.

ENGLISH.

PROFESSOR HARGROVE.

It can no longer be said that a university education is complete without a thorough acquaintance with the language and literature of the vernacular. Especially is this true of all peoples who speak the English language—the language of Wycliffe and Shakespeare; the language that is now most frequently used in furthering the cause of both Commerce and Christianity. Not only should the well-equipped graduate have a practical and theoretical knowledge of the forms and usages of the English language, but he must have that higher and more inspiring communion with language after it has blossomed into beautiful poetry and borne fruit in manly prose. The following course is intended to fulfill the above requirements. Stress is laid upon the fact that literature itself is taught, and not histories of literature.

(A) Rhetoric.—An advanced course in Rhetoric will be required of all Freshmen in the Fall term. Stress will be laid on carefully prepared written exercises. Full course.

(B) Style.—Rhetoric will be followed in the Spring term by a study of style as exemplified in selections from the best English prose. Fortnightly outlines of great essays and orations and themes based on these will be required. Full course.

(C) English Masterpieces.—The course in English Masterpieces will be a serious study of some of the greatest poems in our language, based on Syle's "From Milton to Tennyson." Lectures on the great periods of literature, versification and the various literary forms. Required of all Sophomores. Full course. Fall term.

(D) Shakespeare's Comedies.—Following the above course there will be in the Spring term of Sophomore year an elective study in the Comedies of Shakespeare. Full course.

(E) Old English.—During the Fall term of Junior year the study of Old English and the history of our language will be pursued. Required of B. L's Full course.

(F) American Literature.—This study will be offered in the Fall term of Junior year and is elective. It will be a rapid, general view of the whole field of American Literature, consisting mainly of Library reading, written reports on special books, and discussions in the nature of a Seminar. Prerequisites, courses (A), (B) and (C). Two-thirds course.

(G) Shakespeare's Tragedies.—This study is required of all Juniors in Spring term. Course (C) is prerequisite. Full course.

(H) Chaucer.—The study of Chaucer is an elective course offered to Juniors in Spring term. Prerequisite, course (E). Two-thirds course.

(I) Milton's Paradise Lost.—This is offered as an elective to Seniors in the Fall term. It will be a study of the style, structure, and epic characteristics of the poem. Full course.

(J) Theme Writing.—Theme Writing is also elective. This will be made a heavy course in writing. Set themes will be regularly required and as many impromptu exercises as time will allow. Prerequisites, courses (A) and (B). Two-thirds course.

(K) Romantic Poets.—Elective to Seniors in the Spring term. It will be an intensive study of the characteristics and writers of this great school. Offered in the year 1899-1900 and will hereafter alternate with a study of Victorian Poets. Two-thirds course.

(L) Criticism.—The course in English Literary Criticism is elective in the Spring term of Senior year, and is the highest course offered at present in English. It will comprise a study of some of the greatest English critics, viz: Macaulay, Lowell, Carlyle, Stedman, Coleridge, Arnold. Attention will be given to the historical development and characteristics of the chief literary forms—the epic, the lyric, the drama, the essay, the novel. Full course.

Courses (C), (F), and (G) are also offered by correspondence.

Entrance examination in English will be required of all students who have not finished the Preparatory Department in Baylor University or equivalent work in one of the affiliated Schools.

For the session of 1899-1900 applicants for admission to the Freshman class will be tested as to the ability to write a satisfactory composition on some subject drawn from one of the following:

Whittier's Snow Bound, Longfellow's Courtship of Miles Standish, Scott's Marmion, Dickens' Christmas Carol, Scott's Kenilworth, George Eliot's Silas Marner, Hawthorne's Tanglewood Tales, Irving's Sketch Book.

ECONOMICS AND HISTORY.

PROFESSOR BROOKS.

ECONOMICS.

(A) Political Economy.—In this course Walker's Advanced will be studied. Frequent lectures by the instructor, and reports on assigned topics by the class. Required for all Juniors. Full course. Fall term.

(B) Public Finance.—Recitations and lectures. Includes taxation with special reference to its incidence, financial administration and public debts. Much written work on assigned topics. Two-thirds course. Not offered in 1899-1900, but alternating with Course (C) thereafter.

(C) History and Theory of Banking.—This course is intended to acquaint the student with the financial history of the United States. A study of State and National banks; a review of financial panics as related to banking. Two-thirds course. Spring term.

(D) Jurisprudence.—An elementary study of the origin and historical development of the State; structure and function of the modern State; origin and growth of customary law. The object of this study is to teach students the fundamental laws of equity common to all civilized nations, and to prepare thoughtful young men and women for a proper realization of good citizenship. Two-thirds course. Fall term.

(E) Social Science.—An elementary study of society, the origin of civilization and the growth of social institutions. Only advanced students should take this subject. Full course. Fall term.

(F) Constitutional Government.—A study of American government, Federal and State. Helpful to prospective law students. Full course. Not offered in 1899-1900, but alternating with Course (G) thereafter.

(G) English Constitution.—This study bears the same relation to the English government that Course (F) does to the American. Full course. Spring term.

HISTORY.

(H) English History.—Class work, lectures, collateral reading. Two-thirds course. Fall term.

(I) American History.—Advanced course. A study of the political changes and the causes that produced them. Much outside reading required, and class reports on the same. Two-thirds course. Spring term.

(J) Greek History.—Recitations, lectures. Some time will be devoted to the historical events leading up to this period, as seen in the more ancient nations. Full course. Fall term.

(K) Roman History.—For mode of study see Greek History. Full course. Spring term.

(L) Protestant Reformation.—A careful study of the men and the times that produced it. Library reading and class reports. Especially helpful to preachers and others interested in religious movements. Two-thirds course. Fall term.

(M) French Revolution —Critically studied. An acquaintance with the social, economical and religious changes in France from 1789 to 1815. Two-thirds course. Spring term.

(N) Constitutional and Political History of the United States.—This is a serious study of the history of the constitution and that of political parties in America. All are expected to prepare reports showing the results of independent research. Two-thirds course. Spring term.

In the Department of Economics and History written examinations will be required as often as practicable. These will help to determine the grade of a student at the final term examination.

MODERN LANGUAGES.

PROFESSORS GREER AND HARRIS.

The courses in this department have been arranged with three aims:

1. To give the student a reading knowledge of the language.
2. To enable the student, as far as possible, to speak the language
3. To give a knowledge of the literature of each country as gained through a study of its language.

There are four courses offered in German, the first two of these being required for B. S. or B. L., the others elective for those taking French.

The equivalent of two courses in German is prerequisite to entrance into the Freshman class in this department.

In French four courses are offered, all elective. For B. S. and B. L., French (A) and (B) may be offered in lieu of German (C) and (D).

In Spanish four courses are offered as electives.

GERMAN.

(A) Grammar and Composition completed. "Immensee," Storm, and "Undine," Fouque. Sight reading from Klee's

"Heldensagen." Schiller's "Der Neffe Als Onkel." Conversation. Full course. Fall term.

(B) "Minna Von Barnhelm," Lessing. "Die Jungfrau von Orleans," Schiller. "Deutsche Gedichte," Klenze. "Herman und Dorothea," Goethe. Special topics and conversation. Full course. Spring term.

(C) "Aus dem Leben Eines Taugenichts," Eichendorf. "Maria Stuart," Schiller. Poems, selected. "Ekkehard," Scheffel. Essays and reviews, prepared in German. Elective. Open only to those who have taken course (B). Full course. Fall term.

(D) "Faust," Goethe. Modern prose writers, with especial regard to historic novels. Special topics and reviews. Elective. Open only to those who have taken course (C). Full course. Spring term.

FRENCH.

(A) Muzzarellis First French Course, "Easy French Readings," Fisher. Careful drills in translation. Special attention to pronunciation and composition. Full course. Fall term.

(B) Academic Course begun. Telemaque—three books, with extracts and resumes of remaining books. Memory drills. Sight reading. Poems, selected from Alfred de Musset, Hugo, Racine, Gautier, Voltaire, Lamartine, De La Vinge and Chenier. "Pierre et Camille," Alfred de Musset. Conversation. Full course. Spring term.

(C) Academic Course completed. "Iphigenie," and "Esther," Racine. "Paul et Virginie," St. Pierre. "Charlotte Corday," Ponsard. "La Mare au Diable," George Sand. Conversation and special topics. Full course Fall term.

(D) "L'Abbe Constantine," Halvey. "Les Miserables," Hugo. "Merope," Voltaire. "Le Cid," Corneille. "Le Mari de Mme. Solange," Emile Souvestre. Special topics, reviews and essays. Full course. Spring term.

SPANISH.

(A) DeTorno's Combined Spanish method. Full course. Fall term.

(B) Same with Reader. Full course. Spring term.

(C) Reading selections from modern Spanish authors. Grammar (Knapp). Full course. Fall term.

(D) Dona Perfecta, Benito Perez Galdos. Full course. Spring term.

The work in Spanish is wholly elective.

PEDAGOGY.

PROFESSOR LATTIMORE.

There will be three courses in Pedagogy offered in 1899–1900. Courses (A) and (B) are open to the entire school, and no credit will be given for them toward graduation. Course (C) is a general elective, open to all collegiate students, and counts as a full course toward graduation.

(A) Educational Psychology.—Prominence will be given to those questions in Psychology which are of special interest to the teacher, and in every way the course will be made as practical as possible. Two hours. Fall term.

(B) School Management.—In this course the organization and government of schools, and the relations of the school to the community will be carefully studied. Two hours. Spring term.

(C) History of Education.—After a brief general view of the development of educational thought, there will be more careful study of a few of the more prominent educational reformers. Full course. Fall term.

THE BIBLE SCHOOL.

DOCTOR CARROLL AND PROFESSOR TANNER.

THE PURPOSE

of this Department is three-fold: (1) To train for a more efficient ministry the young men in Texas commended to us by the churches as called of God to preach. It is expected that this training will prepare many for more extended work in the seminary, and tend constantly to stimulate the students to seek in the full seminary course the highest human preparation for efficiency. But as we well know that only a small per cent. of Baptist preachers ever can or ever will take a regular theological course, our desire is to help this far larger number what we can. (2) To equip young people of both sexes for better service in the Sunday School and other departments of church activity. (3) To popularize the intelligent study of God's word. We believe the Bible to be the best of classics—its literature worthy of all acceptation—its systematic study an indispensable part of a liberal education—its precepts the fountain of law and the conservator of society—and its promises the hope of the world.

THE WORK

requires as much time and study as that of other departments, and with one exception receives the same credit. It is divided between the two professors as follows:

DR. CARROLL—

(A) A study of the English of both Testaments, attempting not so much instruction in the things about the Bible, as the Bible itself, and a correlation of its cardinal truths into a system of doctrine and discipline. In this course the entire Bible is covered in four years. The work of 1899–1900 will be in the Pentateuch. Two hours a week throughout the year. For this work, necessarily irregular at times, no credit is given toward a degree. Its reward must be found alone in the good received.

PROF. TANNER--

(B) Old Testament History.--Beginning with Genesis, the historical books of the Old Testament will be studied in their chronological order, and the narrative of Israel followed to the fourth century B. C. The course is primarily historical. Full course. Fall term. Offered 1899–1900 and alternate years thereafter.

(C) Old Testament Prophecy and Poetry.—Following course (B) the prophetical books will be arranged in their chronological order and studied in their respective historical settings. Special attention will be given to the office and the methods of the prophets and to their development of the Messianic idea. This will consume about three-fifths of the term. The remaining two months will be devoted to the poetical books of the Old Testament, their literary form, poetical qualities, contents and teachings. Full course. Spring term. Offered 1899–1900 and alternate years thereafter.

(D) The Life of Jesus.—After a rapid survey of Jewish history during the four preceding centuries, the Life of Jesus is studied in order and detail according to the narrative of the four Gospels arranged in a harmony. This course is primarily historical; yet some special attention is given to the Parables, the Miracles, the Teaching of Jesus and to difficult passages generally. Full course. Fall term. Offered 1900–1901 and alternate years thereafter.

(E) The Apostolic Age. Using the Acts of the Apostles for the history between 30 and 63, A. D., the succeeding books of the New Testament are taken up and studied in their proper historical relations. For method in exegetical study, more thorough treatment will be made of one of the longer letters of Paul. Full course. Spring term. Offered 1900–1901 and alternate years.

(F) New Testament Greek. The purpose of this course is to master the Etymology and vocabulary of New Testament Greek, and to aquire familiarity with the idiom and fluency in reading the language. To this end, four lines of work are carried along together: (1) Committing to memory all the words that occur twenty-five times or more in the Greek Testament. (2) Review of all the inflexions with special notice of New Testament peculiarities. (3) Critical reading of the gospel by Mark, with general drill in grammatical forms. (4) Sight-reading of the Gospel by John. Full course. Fall term. Prerequisite—Classic Greek course through Freshman year.

(G) New Testament Greek. Following upon course (F), a serious study will be made of the Syntax of New Testament Greek, the text-books being supplemented by lectures, and a grammatical study made of the Gospel by Luke. The words that occur from ten to twenty-five times will be memorized. The sight-reading will be carried on in Mathew and subsequent books throughout the term. Full course. Spring term. Prerequisite—Course (F).

(H) New Testament Interpretation. The object here is to gain method and facility in thorough exegesis. One or more of the letters of Paul will be studied in full detail, with the use of the best grammatical, lexical and historical apparatus. The results of the two preceding courses will be clinched and advanced by constant application. Full course. Fall term. Prerequisite—Course (G).

(I) The Elements of Hebrew. This is a beginner's course in the Hebrew language. Pursuing the study by an inductive method, the elementary principles of the language will be mastered, the words that occur fifty times or more will be memorized, and Genesis I-VIII critically read. Full course. Fall term.

(J) Elements of Hebrew. In this course three lines of work will be pursued: (1) The Syntax of the language in regular grammar lessons. (2) Critical reading in Exodus or Deuteronomy. (3) Sight-reading in Genesis. Full course. Spring term. Prerequisite—Course (I).

In courses (F), (G) (I) and (J) one additional hour will be spent with the professor for help in preparation, review and sight-reading.

Those who have taken successfully courses (F), (G), (I) and (J) can enter the second year classes in Greek and Hebrew in any theological seminary.

Text-Books: The Times of Jesus, (Seidel). A Harmony of the Gospels, (Broadus). The Life of Christ, (Hanna). Clark's Harmony of Acts and the Epistles. The Life and Letters of Paul, (Conybeare and Howson). Westcott and Hort's Greek Testament. N. T. Greek Moods and Tenses, (Burton). Grammar of N. T. Greek, (Winer). Thayer's Lexicon of N. T. Greek. Harper's Elements of Hebrew, his Method and Manual and his Elements of Hebrew Syntax; besides many books of reference in the libraries of the professors and the Adelphian Society.

Courses (D), (F) and (I) are offered also by correspondence.

For the Summer Bible School, see under "The Summer Term."

PREPARATORY DEPARTMENT.

PROFESSOR POOL, Principal.
MISS SEALE AND MISS GRIFFITH, Assistants.

Owing to the pressing demand for work below the collegiate classes, Baylor University has found it necessary to offer a three-years' course in preparatory studies.

Students on entering this department will be given an examination, either orally or in writing, of sufficient scope to determine to what classes they should be assigned. Students coming from affiliated schools, or from reputable high schools anywhere, wishing to have work accepted, must bring the certificate of the superintendent or principal of such school showing that the work thus offered has been satisfactorily completed.

The branches included in the Preparatory Course are of such great practical value, and future success in any sphere of life depends so much on a proper and thorough start that complete mastery of these subjects is sought and correct habits of study are strongly emphasized.

The course has been extended by adding to the subjects formerly embraced, Elements of Bookkeeping, Elements of Drawing, some additional work in preparatory literature, one year's work in German for students in the B. S. and B. L. courses, a half year in Greek for those in the A. B. course, and a half year in Latin for all courses.

The best methods of instruction are employed by teachers and professors of broad scholarship and successful experience. Efforts are constantly made to awaken the latent powers and enkindle the aspirations of the pupils who enter this department. They are shown that, while a mastery of the subjects here found will measurably fit them for practical duties of life, still this is only an introduction to the great storehouse of knowledge which they may enter and possess by continuing the work in the higher classes.

Students of this department studying Greek, German and the elementary natural sciences recite to the University Professors in charge of the subjects mentioned. The advantage of thus having the ablest instruction in these branches where a correct beginning is essential, can hardly be overestimated.

The names of text-books prescribed for use will be found in connection with each subject in the subjoined Course of Study. A number of different texts on almost every subject embraced will be used in class work, and the broadest possible view will be given of each branch studied.

In addition to a thorough study of grammar, composition and elementary rhetoric, the subject of English in this department will include a course in preparatory literature. The selections which follow will be used as a basis for this work. A thorough knowledge of these masterpieces and a familiarity with the history of their authors will be required for entrance to the college classes in English.

Selections for 1899–1900: Courtship of Miles Standish, Snowbound, Scott's Kenilworth, George Eliot's Silas Marner, Tanglewood Tales, Irving's Sketch Book.

Supplementary reading: Last of the Mohicans, Ivanhoe, David Copperfield, Tom Brown's School Days, Emerson's Essays, Cotter's Saturday Night, Life of Washington.

Upon the completion of either course outlined on pages

36–7, each student will be given a Certificate of Graduation from the Department, signed by the Chairman of the Faculty and the Principal of the Department. This certificate will admit the student to the Freshman Class of the course he is pursuing.

Teachers and those who expect to teach are invited to notice the advantages offered by our Preparatory Course. It and the Department of Pedagogy embrace every branch required for a teacher's first grade certificate. Pupils of this Department are admitted free to the classes in Educational Psychology, School Management and Elements of Morals.

Preparatory students have the advantages of large and enthusiastic classes, daily contact with those of higher attainments, benefits of all chapel lectures, access to large libraries, privileges of membership in excellent literary societies, and many other opportunities for improvement which can not be found in smaller schools.

DEPARTMENT OF ELOCUTION.

MISS HALL.

The methods employed in this department are in accordance with the "New Philosophy of Education," as taught at the Emerson College of Oratory, Boston, Mass. They are adapted to any who desire free expression of thought through the physical man, and are of especial value to teachers.

For class work we use the Evolution of Expression, which contains selections illustrating the "four stages in the development of art," based upon the order of development of the human mind.

The system of Physical Culture is an important feature and can not be too strongly emphasized. The exercises are systematically arranged and precede all other class work.

Time Required.—To complete the entire course in Elocution and Oratory requires three years of forty weeks each, two and one-half hours per day.

A student may, by devoting five hours per day to the work, complete the course in two years.

A student may, by devoting his entire time to the work, complete the entire course in one year.

A certificate from the one year course, as well as from the others, must depend upon the ability of the student on entering and upon his ability to pass the required examination at he close of the course.

Graduation.—A student who completes the entire course, to the satisfaction of the principal, and makes a grade of 85 on the final examination, will receive a certificate of proficiency; provided, no student shall receive a certificate (1) without having devoted the required time to the study; (2) who has not completed the Sophomore year; (3) who has not prepared at least ten recitations during the last year of his course. (One each of these recitations must be ready for public delivery by the close of each school month, and the selection and rendition must be such as will meet the approval of the Director); (4) who does not make a record for high moral character.

Students are required to consult with the Director in regard to reciting on public occasions, and in regard to the selection of recitations for public delivery.

SCHOOL OF MUSIC.

PROFESSOR SCHAUS, DIRECTOR.

MISS MCGOWN, Piano. MISS HARRISON, MISS RANDALL, } Piano.

MISS FINLEY, Vocal.

PIANO DEPARTMENT.

Experience has taught us that the most satisfactory results leading to a symmetrical, well-rounded musical education are obtained in a regular School of Music, especially established for that purpose, and where students are required to follow a well selected and properly graded course of study. The course adopted by the Faculty of this School aims at the highest intellectual and technical possibilities of musical culture; it is abreast with those of the best schools of this country, North and South, and very similar to those of the famous Art Schools of Germany. Our methods, based on pedagogic principles, are the most approved, modern and progressive, and well calculated to inspire in the hearts of our pupils that "Love for Art" without which no real progress is possible.

The course of studies for Piano begins with the easier exercises of Koehler, Brauer, Mathews, Loeschhorn, Czerny and Bertini, and imparts thorough instruction in the primary principles of piano playing, leading step by step into the more difficult and advanced studies and etudes by Cramer, Mocheles, Clementi, Bach and Henselt, and finally takes up the great compositions of our classic and romantic writers, including the works of Mozart, Beethoven, Chopin, Liszt, Raff, Rubinstein, Paderewski, and others. The course is divided into six grades, and throughout Faelton's, Mason's, Doerner's and Tausig's daily exercises and studies are used as foundation work to all technical achievements, in furtherance of which the "Virgil Practice Clavier," to which all pupils have free access, proves of special value. Besides their regular lessons, pupils are required to practice at least one hour daily; more time for study will depend on the individuality of the student, as to talent, mental and physical development, etc., but before passing into a higher grade students must attain the skill and excellence possible in the preceding grade.

From the rich literature of piano-forte music, we make such choice selections of solos, duets, quartets, etc., in keeping with the respective grade, that are best suited to give zest to the pupil's labors, to encourage their efforts, and also to serve as program numbers in our recitals and entertainments.

VIOLIN DEPARTMENT.

During the six grades in this course, special attention is given to correct position, pure and noble tone production and ensemble playing. The course is as follows:

First Grade.—Schubert's Violin Method, I. Vol.; Blumenthal's Easy Duets; Hering's Op. 66; Duets by Gebauer.

Second Grade.—Schubert's II. Vol.; Pleyel's Violin Duos; Zanger's Easy Duets and Trios; Hauptmann's First Sonatas.

Third Grade.—Schubert's III. Vol.; Etudes by Dancla, Mazas and Kayser, Duos and Trios by Gruenwald; selections.

Fourth Grade.—Etudes by Dancla, Mazas and Fiorillo; Studies by Dont and Viotti.

Fifth Grade.—Schubert's IV. Vol.; Forty Studies by Kreutzer; Caprices by Rhode, David and Hauser; Program-pieces by Raff, Wieniawski, David and De Beriot.

Sixth Grade.—Sixty Studies and Caprices by Paganini; Bach's and Beethoven's Sonatas; Concertos by De Beriot, Joachim, Brahms, etc.

VOCAL DEPARTMENT.

In this department high grade advantages are offered. While the voice is being carefully trained the student is being instructed in sight singing and in that which is most difficult and rarely attained in Music—true expression.

The training of the voice embraces a course of four grades, which a student of average ability may complete in three years, and is as follows:

First Grade.—Lessons in Physiology of the Voice and the Organs of Respiration; Exercises for Developing Medium Voice, Chest Voice, Head Voice; Practice for Uniting Medium, Head and Chest; Light Ballads.

Second Grade.—Practice of Slow Scale, Rapid Scales, Arpeggois; The Turn, Vocal Technique, Italian and English Songs.

Third Grade.—Scales, Solfeggi, Trill; Chromatic Scales, Luetgen Exercises, Books I. and II.; Marchesi's Vocalises, Op. 15, Book III ; selections from the Italian, German and English Songs and Operas.

Fourth Grade.—Study of Oratorio, Handel, Hayden, Mendelssohn; Italian Arias; Marchesi's Twelve Studies in Style, English and German Songs.

We feel the importance of a well rounded musical education, and therefore we offer a two years' course in Sight Singing, and continuous work in Vocal Physiology and Correct Breathing.

THEORY AND SIGHT SINGING.

A class in Sight Singing is formed at the beginning of each session, and students are allowed to progress as rapidly as capable. Special attention is given to the theory of music, and the student is taught to read at sight in all keys and measures. This class meets twice a week. This is a drill that no vocal student can afford to miss, and it is also of very great importance to young ministers in their life-work.

UNIVERSITY CHORUS.

An extra Chorus Class is provided for the members of the Sight Singing Class, meeting once a week. Selections from Oratorios, such as the "Gloria" and "The Heavens are Telling," and other famous choruses are sung in this class. The good results from this drill have been plainly seen during the past year in the improvement of our chapel singing.

Sight Singing and Chorus Drill are free to all vocal students.

Students to graduate from this department are required to complete the two years' course in Sight Singing and finish the third grade in piano, besides taking duet. trio and quartette work, and assisting in recitals and concerts.

THEORY AND HISTORY OF MUSIC.

Such subjects of modern tonality as Tones, Notations, Diatonic, Chromatic and Enharmonic Scales; Intervals; Inversion; Major and Minor Modes, Transposition, etc., are elaborately treated by explanations and blackboard exercises. The history of the lives and works of prominent composers of the classic and romantic schools. Essays by Pupils. These lessons and lectures are given weekly during the entire school year, and all pupils are admitted free to this class.

HARMONY.

Special attention is called to the importance of this study; for in order to become a good musician it is absolutely necessary to know the construction of the compositions to be interpreted. Text books: Feye, Richter and Goodrich. Pupils who intend to graduate are required to pursue this study for at least two years.

HONORS.

Students who successfully complete a prescribed course, will, on recommendation of the Conservatory Faculty to the President and the Board of Trustees, be awarded a diploma. Those not completing may, upon leaving, receive a testimonial, taken from the records of the institution, stating time of attendance, diligence and progress.

RECITALS.

Private and public recitals and concerts, from which many obvious advantages are to be derived, are a regular feature of our Conservatory.

ART DEPARTMENT.

MRS. EMMA HUMPHREYS.

It has been the object of the Principal of this Department to develop a desire on the part of the student to follow the dictates of nature, our only safeguard, and to cultivate the sense of sight. "Art in the household and the study of the beautiful, is as necessary to the development of character as is literary thought."

Every one who has patience and perseverance can learn to draw, and every child should be given the elements of a practical art education.

It is the desire of every beginner to plunge into color at once, but drawing is the great law for him to consider; otherwise he can never hope to do satisfactory work. Therefore, it has been a part of the work of the Principal to equip the studio with the same casts and studies found in the best art academies New casts and studies are added every year.

Certificates will be given to students who have completed with credit the three years' course of study in the regular class.

First Year.—Use of charcoal, pencil and crayon in drawing from the flat and from objects. Outline and shaded studies from the features.

Second Year.—Drawing from casts, studies from features, hands, feet, busts, etc., painting from still life in pastel, water color and oil.

Third Year.—Drawing and Painting from life and from nature. Drawing from the antique.

Special Class.—China painting.

All art students are recommended to study at least one of the modern languages, as every one who studies art with seriousness expects to go abroad at some time.

A course of art reading is also provided. New books are added yearly to the art library. The work of the students will be exhibited at the close of the year.

MILITARY DEPARTMENT.

W. W. Battle, Commandant of Cadets.

During the session of 1898–1899 this department has enrolled one hundred cadets. These cadets were organized into an Infantry battalion of two companies, an Artillery platoon of two gun detachments and a Signal corps.

Cadet Regulations are printed in pamphlet form for distribution. Every cadet is furnished one copy upon his entrance into the department. It is the aim of the department to develop to the greatest possible extent those soldierly qualities of manliness, courtesy, accuracy, promptness and devotion to duty so essential to success in the vocations of life. The physical benefits of military drill are scarcely of less importance than the excellent habits acquired. To secure health and prevent diligent students from neglecting their physical development, regular, methodical exercises are necessary. The military drill, embracing seventeen exercises (without arms) for the development of the muscles of the neck, hands, arms, shoulders, chest, trunk, legs and feet, in addition to the brisk work done in the manual of arms, bayonet exercise, manœuvers on the drill ground and in marching, meet the requirements of health and bodily development completely. The military drill straightens the body, renders the joints supple, the muscles quick and accurate in action, throws back the head and shoulders, expands the chest and invigorates all the vital organs—in short, adds a new zest and a new lease of life.

The United States has furnished the department with one hundred and fifty Springfield cadet rifles with equipments, and two 3-inch wrought iron muzzle-loading rifled field guns with implements.

The uniform is of handsome cadet grey, similar to that worn by cadets at the United States Military and Naval academies. It is neat, serviceable, suitable to wear on all occasions, and cadets are required to wear it on all military duty. It is more economical than other clothing, as the material is excellent, and costs for the complete suit, made to individual measurement, only $16.00. Students should remember this fact when purchasing clothing for the school year.

COURSE OF INSTRUCTION.

PRACTICAL PART.—EACH YEAR.—(THREE HOURS A WEEK.)

Drill in the schools of the soldier, company and battalion, both in close and extended order, inspection, review, military gymnastics, military signaling, artillery drill and target practice with Springfield cadet rifles.

THEORETICAL PART.—FIRST YEAR.—(ONE HOUR A WEEK.)

Recitations in Infantry Drill Regulations in the school of the soldier, the school of the company, the school of the battalion, bayonet exercise, fire discipline, the extended order drill for the squad, platoon, company and battalion, advance and rear guard, outposts, marches, camping, battalion review, guard mounting, battalion parade and battalion inspection.

THEORETICAL PART.—SECOND YEAR.—(ONE HOUR A WEEK.)

Review of the first year's course, and a course in the Art and Science of War embracing twenty short chapters under the headings "Army Organizations," "Army Administration," "Lines and Orders of Battle," "Napoleon's Military System," "Modern Tactics," "Strategy," "Military Obstacles," "Explosions," "Cannon," "Siege Operations," "Military Transport and Supply," and other kindred subjects.

In addition to the above, all cadets are required to attend the lectures of the Commandant of Cadets. These lectures are delivered from time to time, usually when the weather is inclement and always outside of the regular college working hours. The lectures are on such military subjects as "Camping," "Marches," "The Army of the United States," "The National Guard," "The Customs of War," "Street Fighting," etc.

CERTIFICATE OF PROFICIENCY.

To secure the Certificate of Proficiency in Military Science and Tactics, the student must take the practical course and the two years' theoretical course, and must stand semi-annual written examinations on the latter course, passing each with a grade of at least seventy per cent. These Certificates are signed by the Chairman of the Faculty and the Commandant of Cadets, and they exempt Cadets from further work in the theoretical course.

PRIZE DRILLS.

This is a new and popular feature of the Department. Once a year there are prize drills for the best drilled company, the best drilled Cadet, the best drilled new Cadet, and the best rifle shot in the battalion. The winners are presented with medals, which are very handsomely and suitably inscribed.

CREDIT GIVEN FOR MILITARY COURSE.

Military drill has been added to the regular course of instruction, and will be placed to the student's credit in making up the requirements for graduation—a year of military drill being accepted as the equivalent of a two-third course of study.

The rules of the University are as follows:

"All male students fourteen years old or older, not physically disqualified and not hereinafter exempted, shall be required to take military drill until they shall have taken it two years."

"Those who may be exempt are: 1. Seniors; 2. Students whose parents or guardians request their exemption; 3. Young men who are defraying their own expenses and who request to be exempted."

No charges are made for instruction in this department.

MATRICULATION.

It is the duty of all students on their arrival in Waco to report promptly to the Chairman for matriculation.

Certificates of moral character and of honorable dismissal from any other college previously attended, presented to the Chairman are prerequisite to matriculation.

Matriculation shall consist of three things:

First. Examination and classification.

Second. Payment to the Collector or Treasurer of all required dues, of which fact that officer's receipt, with the coupons of classification attached, is the only proof.

Third. Registration.

Any teacher receiving into his class a student without legal evidence of Matriculation, shall be held responsible for all his dues.

NUMBER OF STUDIES.

No collegiate student will be permitted, without the consent of the Faculty, to take less than twelve hours a week, nor more than sixteen. No student in any department will be allowed to withdraw from any assigned study without the consent of the Chairman and the Teacher in charge.

ADMISSION TO COLLEGIATE CLASSES.

ENTRANCE EXAMINATIONS.

A student holding a certificate of graduation from the Preparatory Department of Baylor University, shall be admitted to Freshman studies in the course in which the certificate was given without further examination.

A student may be admitted to any class in a Department upon passing an examination, either oral or written, in the studies which the Professor in charge of the Department may consider prerequisite to that study.

Entrance examinations will be held Monday, September 4. and Tuesday, September 5. 1899.

ADMISSION FROM OTHER COLLEGES.

Graduates or advanced students from other colleges of high grade may be admitted without examination on presenting satisfactory testimonials of scholarship and character. Such graduates or students will be assigned to those classes for which their previous training qualifies them, every case being decided on its merits.

EXAMINATIONS.

At the close of each term, or whenever particular studies are completed, examinations will be held. These examinations will usually be written; though oral examinations may be held on any subject at the discretion of the Professor in charge Students necessarily absent from the regular examination, must pass a special examination before they can enter their class or receive their grades.

In order to pass from any study, the student must have made an average grade of 75 per cent. upon (1) class record, based upon both attendance and recitation, and (2) final examination, with not less than 70 in either

A student may be granted a second examination upon the following conditions: (1) His average class grade upon the subject for the term must have been at least 85. (2) The student shall have paid to the Registrar a fee of one dollar for the examination.

WITHDRAWAL FROM UNIVERSITY.

Permission of withdrawal shall not be granted except for ill health, inability to pursue College duties, or some unavoidable necessity, or by the written request of the parent or guardian It is earnestly requested that no parent withdraw his son or daughter just before the examination for trivial causes. Such withdrawals are highly injurious to the student. Any student who shall leave the University without permission, signed by the Chairman, shall be suspended ipso facto.

DISCIPLINE.

GENERAL REGULATIONS.

The discipline of the University is always as nearly parental as possible. The University is intended to be a great literary family, bound together by love, mutual interest and kind offices. Appeals will always be made first to the tenderest, noblest impulses of the heart. Severer remedies will be used only when these fail.

Every teacher is as much an officer of discipline as of instruction, and must at all times use his utmost diligence to preserve order and to inspire his pupils with the love of study and true scholarly bearing, and must regard his duties in the University as paramount to other matters. Each student shall pursue diligently the course of study prescribed for him by the Faculty; failing to do so, he shall first be affectionately admonished, and unless reclaimed, shall be suspended from the institution, or otherwise punished.

Young men shall not in any way intrude upon the study hall, recitation room or campus of the young ladies. A violation of this rule will subject the offender to severe discipline at the discretion of the Faculty.

PAYMENT OF FEES.

All fees, including Entrance Fee, Tuition, and Board in Georgia Burleson Hall, shall be paid to the Treasurer, or to his authorized agent

These fees are payable quarterly (ten weeks) in advance, and no student shall be admitted to the University until the fees for the quarter have been settled.

Students entering during the first two weeks will be charged for the full quarter.

In case of protracted illness or death, the pro rata of tuition and board will be refunded, but in no other case. No money will be refunded for absence the last two weeks of any quarter.

No money will be advanced on the current expenses of students. but parents must make a deposit with the Treasurer to meet such expenses.

It is difficult to control in matters of money spending where there is such a diversity of taste and means among our patrons and students. But all experience in colleges and universities demonstrates that the unrestrained use of money ruins the one guilty of the folly. Every dollar furnished to students beyond actual want, as seen in the published rates, is a positive injury to the student and University.

BOARDING FACILITIES.

Board in private families may be had at from $10 to $15 per month. Young men who prefer to board in private families are subject to the following conditions:

(1) Before any arrangement for board can be regarded as binding, it must be approved by the boarding house committee of the Faculty, which shall keep a list of approved boarding houses for the convenience of students. (2) Each change of boarding house is subject to the approval of the same committee. (3) Whenever the boarding house influences of any student demand it, the committee may require a removal. (4) Families refusing to co-operate in the discipline of the University shall be stricken from the list of approved boarding houses.

MAGGIE HOUSTON HALL.

A large number of young men room and board in the old University buildings, on the corner of Fifth and Webster streets. The Hall is so managed as to reduce the expense of good table board to a minimum, $7 per month of 28 days.

Each student pays $1 per month room rent, each room being occupied by two or three students, usually by two. Students provide their own furniture at slight cost and care for their own rooms.

The entire average cost of table board, room rent, furnishing of room, fuel and light in many cases does not exceed $9.50 per month.

No young man will be received into the Hall, except on the best evidence of good moral character, nor retained if his conduct is not exemplary. The success of the Hall has been eminently satisfactory and the Faculty earnestly commend it to students. It is under the special supervision of Prof. O. C. Charlton and wife.

GEORGIA BURLESON HALL.

All youmg ladies not living in Waco are required to board in the Georgia Burleson Hall, a magnificent building with seventy-five rooms, erected and furnished especially for that purpose. Young ladies may board with a near relative, who will promise to see that all rules of the University are faithfully observed, and report to the Faculty every violation of law. In special instances, however, young ladies over twenty-one years of age, or young ladies who are defraying their own expenses by work, may board with the family of a professor of the University, or by special faculty action, such arrangements may be permitted with other families.

The advantages of boarding in the Institution, however, must be patent to all, for several reasons:

(1) Better accommodations and at cheaper rates than can be found elsewhere. (2) Systematic hours of study and recreation. (3) Protection against interruption of every kind. (4) The watchful care and counsel of the lady teachers in all the details of general deportment and social etiquette. No private family can afford equal facilities for study and general improvement.

The occupants of each room will be held responsible for proper care of the furniture therein, and charged with any unnecessary damage or loss.

Students having visitors at meals will have the charge added to their own accounts, unless paid by the visitors.

Each young lady will furnish her own towels, soap, combs, brushes, pillow-slips, sheets, two blankets and napkins. She is also expected to provide herself with one spoon, knife and fork, saucer and goblet for use in her room. This regulation is to prevent the dishes of the dining-room being taken to her room. Each young lady is required to have every article of her wardrobe legibly marked with her full name. Each student is requested to supply herself with comfortable wraps, rubbers and umbrella.

Young ladies are required to study two hours at night and at such other times as the Faculty may direct. Each boarder is required to attend Sunday-school and church under the supervision of the matron, or some of the lady teachers.

Correspondence will be under the direction and inspection of the matron. No letter or note shall be sent to or from the boarding-house without her approval. Any student sending or carrying communications, except such as may be approved by the matron, will be liable to suspension.

Young men having sisters or other relatives in the boarding house, may call on them Saturdays, from 2 to 4 p. m., but at no other time, except by special permission from proper authority.

Young ladies coming from a distance to enter the University are requested to notify the Professor in charge, in advance, of the time of their intended arrival, that he may meet them at the train. Young ladies visiting home during the session are required to observe the same rule

Boarders can not be allowed to spend the night with friends in the city, and no parent need make any such request.

Our boarders are not allowed on the streets, unless accompanied by a teacher or matron. Young ladies must not open accounts at any store, nor make any purchases without the approval of the matron or teacher in charge; nor borrow from, nor lend to each other money, jewelry or clothing.

UNIFORMS.

There are many reasons why uniformity of dress should be a positive requirement in the school. The children of the rich and the poor are necessarily brought together in the school room, and anything that makes marked distinction in dress is both unwise and unjust. The adoption of a plain, simple and inexpensive uniform places a check upon the extravagance of such as are fond of display, and removes all causes of mortification on the part of those unable to afford it. The uniform will not be required as a daily dress, but must be worn on all public occasions.

The uniform for fall and winter term will not be decided on until after the opening of the school; hence, young ladies will not be required to be in uniform until a month or so thereafter. We intend that it shall be neat and inexpensive. To secure entire uniformity and the greatest cheapness, it should be purchased and made in Waco.

For every-day use plain dresses must be worn. This will be insisted on. Parents are requested not to allow their daughters to purchase and wear handsome and expensive jewelry while at school, as all such unnecessary ornaments will be entirely out of place with their simple dress. We hope to have the hearty support of parents in this particular, as well as in all other matters pertaining to the interest of the University.

When it is desired that any article of dress should be procured after reaching school, the Matron will take pleasure in directing the purchases of the young ladies and in securing the best terms for them.

Parents are requested to deposit with the Registrar an amount sufficient to meet all expenses of this character, as no money can be advanced upon current expenses.

All mail matter, express packages, telegrams and money for the young ladies should be sent in care of Baylor University.

DISCIPLINE.

The discipline of Georgia Burleson Hall will be mild, but firm. If pupils come with the expectation of doing right because it is right, there will be no trouble. Our cardinal principle will be insisted on—prompt obedience to every rule of the department, and its reasonableness or unreasonableness will not be urged with the pupil. All that can be done by careful oversight, private admonition, and personal appeal, will be done to secure cheerful obedience to our regulations.

GENERAL STATEMENTS.

LOCATION AND HEALTH.

As a healthful location Waco is unsurpassed. It is situated on the western bank of the Brazos river, having no bottom lands for some distance above and below, and a high, rolling prairie commencing at the bank of the river and extending fifty miles south, giving an elevated position with the full benefit of the south breeze and above malaria or any local causes of sickness in summer. Waco is also protected on the north and east by the cedar hills of the Bosque and the dense "Cross Timbers;" and is thus protected from the fierce north winds in winter. By comparing statistics recently published by various cities it will be seen that Waco is one of our healthiest cities. Waco's famous artesian wells and elegant natatorium make her a health resort of high rank. The hospitality, the intelligence and the enterprise of Waco are widely known, and she has long been known as the "Athens of Texas," and the "City of Churches and Schools."

CO-EDUCATION.

Thirty-eight years ago, after profound reflection and investigation, co-education was adopted in Waco University, and since consolidation has been retained in Baylor University. Students of both sexes recite in the same classes and meet daily in the same chapel, but occupy separate rooms for study, have separate grounds for exercise, and board in separate buildings

Co-education not only excites greater diligence in study, but cultivates in young men manliness and morality, and in young women neatness, order and modesty.

A student remaining in Baylor University three or four years will form intimate and pleasant associations with hundreds of young men and women from every part of Texas This association will prove of inestimable value to those whose life-work is in Texas.

MORAL AND RELIGIOUS INSTRUCTION.

The Faculty will constantly aim to imbue the mind and heart of the student with a deep sense of honor and moral excellence. As the Bible is the only foundation of morals and religion, its teachings will be often and solemnly enforced. Although the University is a Baptist institution and belongs to the Baptist denomination, nothing sectarian will be taught in the daily recitations. Special attention will be given to Sabbath-school instruction and Bible classes; and every student is expected to attend public worship at such place as his parents or guardian may designate. If no special place is designated, the young ladies will accompany a teacher to the Baptist Church.

The students' prayer meeting is held in the University Chapel every Friday night. A permanent organization has been effected under the name of the Student's Christian Association, which has stated meetings for prayer, song, and in the interest of missions. Also on Sunday nights there is preaching in the University Chapel by the ministeral students of the school. All students are urged to become members of the Student's Christian Association, to attend its meetings, and to enter fully into the religious life of the University.

CONDITIONS OF MINISTERIAL AID.

1. Free tuition in the Literary and Bible Departments shall be given to any applicant who is a member of a regular Baptist church and brings a certificate from said church that he has been licensed or ordained, and is at the present time worthy of such help.

2. If he be an applicant for other help, then in addition to the foregoing conditions, his church, or association, or brethren elsewhere, must practically endorse him as a beneficiary by pledging to share with the Trustees the expense of his board, which will be, in round numbers, about $100 per annum. Of this amount at least $50 should come from his home friends as a substantial mark of their confidence. The Board may, on sufficient evidence of need and worthiness, extend their part of the help beyond the minimum, $50.

3. A further condition of receiving aid from the fund is that the student shall carry on successfully a course of studies amounting to at least fourteen hours of recitation per week. Low monthly grades, poor attendance or failure in final examinations shall be sufficient ground for discontinuing help.

4. Since the disbursement of this fund is not a charity, but an investment in the efficiency of the Baptist ministry, preference will be given to men who have not only the desired moral qualifications, but ability and disposition to profit most by college training.

5. All ministerial students are required to carry regularly at least one study in the Bible Department, unless excused by the Ministerial Aid Committee.

6. All intending to comply with these conditions should open correspondence, before school term begins, with Dr. B. H. Carroll, Principal of Department of Bible Teaching, who will consider details of applications and give all additional information, and who is hereby authorized to consummate all necessary arrangements.

PREACHERS' CHILDREN.

Minor children of Baptist ministers actively engaged in the ministry as a life-work and in hearty co-operation with this University, may have free tuition in the Literary Department. The same benefit occurs to minor children of deceased Baptist ministers, who when living came within these conditions.

But as Baylor University has no endowment and is greatly burdened in educating the large number of beneficiaries that yearly come to its halls, be it

Resolved, That free tuition be offered in the Collegiate Department and in the third and senior year of the Preparatory Department, to those entitled to same under the rules relating to beneficiaries, thus allowing no beneficiary or free tuition in the first and second year of the Preparatory Department.

This does not apply to ministerial students.

LECTURES.

After the school and the press there is perhaps no agency more powerful for popular instruction and elevation than the lecture platform. In this respect the students in Baylor University have been peculiarly blest during the past year.

Through the liberal rates granted by the Y. M. C. A. and other organizations in the city the students have gotten to hear some of the finest lecturers upon the American platform. They have had the privilege of hearing such men as Alexander Black, Chas. Underhill, Rev. Sam P. Jones and Prof. Jno. B. DeMotte.

Members of the Faculty have given public lectures to the students and general public as follows:

Professor Brooks—A Glimpse of the French Revolution.

Professor Charlton—Why a Theory of Evolution?

Hon. R. L. Henry gave a public lecture the week of the opening, and later in the session Dr. R. N. Barrett delivered his lecture on Ann Haseltine Judson. We have also had visits from prominent statesmen and divines, among whom were Governor Sayers, Congressman Lanham. Rev. C. N.

Blackwell, Col. L. L. Foster, Dr. L. A. Johnson, Rev. A. J. Harris and Rev. W. A. Freeman.

In addition to these there have been weekly lectures given every Friday morning by prominent men of Waco and other places. This series of weekly lectures has proven highly entertaining and instructive.

LITERARY SOCIETIES.

Nothing more clearly indicates the life and prosperity of Baylor University than the flourishing condition of the Philomathesian, Erisophian, Adelphian, Calliopean and Rufus C. Burleson Societies.

Three of these are composed of gentlemen and two of ladies.

These societies are intended to awaken and cultivate a love of reading and literary taste; to drill the student in oral debate and writing essays, and to give a practical knowledge of parliamentary usage in conducting deliberative assemblies. Every student is urged to become an active member of some one of these societies.

The Adelphian Society is composed of young preachers. and is devoted especially to theological investigations and discussions of the doctrines of the Bible.

COLLEGE PUBLICATIONS.

The Baylor Literary is published monthly by the students. It is under the control of the Literary Societies and represents what is contributed by the students and what is gathered by the editors from campus, class room and society halls.

The Baylor Bulletin is edited quarterly by the Faculty. It is devoted to Christian education. It contains contributed articles by the Faculty and by able thinkers and writers in the educational and religious world. It is the official organ of the University and publishes the rulings of the Faculty and Board of Trustees.

THE MUSEUM.

The aid of friends in securing specimens for the Museum is solicited. Minerals, fossils, zoological and botanical specimens, valuable relics, etc., will be welcomed, properly labeled and displayed.

Acknowledgments are due for recent contributions as follows:

H. E. Ambold, Waco.
Stephen Turner, Waco.
Capt. J. A. Emery, U. S. Army.
E. R. Millican, Waco.
Missouri Botanical Garden.
U. S. Fish Commission, San Marcos, Texas.
S. G. Porter, Kyle, Texas.
Clint Chambers, Foncine, Texas.
W. W. Battle, Waco.

Friends attending the Texas-Colorado Chautauqua of 1898, at Boulder, Colorado, presented to the University a valuable collection of minerals.

FELLOWSHIPS AND SCHOLARSHIPS.

THE ALUMNI FELLOWSHIP.

In 1896 the Alumni Association determined to endow a Fellowship and at once secured subscriptions amounting to about $2000. By the annual meeting in 1897 this amount had been increased to $2500.

The name, the Rufus C. Burleson Fellowship in English, was adopted and the details for securing the appointment and holding the fellowship were settled. It is hoped that the Fellowship will be available by September, 1899.

A considerable portion of the fund has been paid and the rest is expected as soon as it is possible for it to be paid. If any one wishes to know the conditions of appointment to the fellowship they may be learned from the Chairman or the Secretary of the Faculty.

PHILOMATHESIAN SCHOLARSHIP.

The endowment upon which this scholarship rests was raised by the Philomathesian Literary Society in 1897 and the scholarship at once declared open to appointment. The scholarship pays the tuition fees of the holder in the Academic Department for one session of ten months.

For appointment the candidate must have a good student record, a good record as a member of the Philomathesian Society, and must win first rank in an oratorical contest. After appointment the holder of the scholarship must maintain the standing already won as a student and member of his society. He may be granted special privileges by the Faculty and may be called upon to render semi-official service to the amount of three hours per week.

Mr. Minor Lee Moore has held this scholarship for the session 1898–1899.

ERISOPHIAN SCHOLARSHIP.

During the present session the Erisophian Literary Society has endowed a scholarship, paying the fees of a student in the Academic Department for one ten months' session.

The candidate for appointment to this scholarship must have a good record as a student, a good record as a member of the Erisophian Literary Society, and must win first rank in an oratorical contest.

The holder of the scholarship shall conduct himself as an exemplary student and member of his society. He may be granted special privileges by the Faculty and may be called upon to render semi-official service to the amount of three hours per week.

Mr. Frederick Erle McKee held this scholarship until the middle of the Spring term of the session 1898–1899.

The Calliopean and R. C. B. Societies are also raising funds for the endowment of a scholarship each. They have collected a considerable portion of what is necessary, and hope by another year to add two more scholarships to those now provided.

It is hoped that we may be able very soon to announce, not only other fellowships and scholarships, but also professorships and other forms for permanent endowment.

For the guidance of those who may feel inclined to help in endowments a form of bequest or donation is given below:

FORM OF ENDOWMENT.

I hereby give and donate (or bequeath) to Baylor University, at Waco, Texas, the sum of.....(or that certain parcel and tract of land, to-wit:.....or the following bonds, etc., to-wit:.....) to be safely invested by the Trustees of said University as a permanent endowment for (here give purpose of the endowment, whether to general fund, professorship, etc.)

LIBRARIES AND READING ROOMS.

There are now in the various Libraries of Baylor University, including a number of Government publications, more than eight thousand bound volumes and several hundred valuable pamphlets, distributed as follows:

GENERAL LIBRARY.

Here in a well-furnished room are twenty-four hundred bound volumes and two hundred pamphlets.

SOCIETY LIBRARIES.

In the rooms of our five Literary Societies are fifty-seven hundred bound volumes and five hundred pamphlets. The Adelphian Society library includes the magnificent library of the lamented Dr. J. A. Kimball, which consists of twelve hundred and thirty-seven bound volumes. A casual visitor would not realize the number and value of these well selected publications, because they are distributed in six separate rooms.

READING ROOMS.

Six years ago elegant and well furnished rooms were fitted up in Georgia Burleson and Maggie Houston Halls, on whose tables may be found the purest current literature, embodied in magazines and papers. We invite donations to these libraries and reading rooms.

THE SUMMER TERM.

THE FACULTY FOR 1899.

WADE HILL POOL, A. B., CHAIRMAN,
Moral Science, Preparatory Latin, Algebra, Arithmetic, Pedagogy.

ORLANDO CLARKE CHARLTON, B. S., A. M.,
Natural Sciences.

WILLIAM ASBURY HARRIS, A. M., PH. D.,
Greek, German, Psychology.

SAMUEL PALMER BROOKS, A. B.,
English, Economics, History.

JOSEPH CECIL STONE, A. B.,
Latin.

ROBERT HOUSTON HAMILTON, A. B.,
Assistant in Mathematics—Higher Algebra, Geometry, Advanced Mathematics.

CARL LOVELACE, B. S.,
Assistant in English—United States History, Texas History, French.

GUSTAV ADOLPH SCHAUS,
Director of School of Music—Piano, Violin, Harmony and Analysis.

SPECIAL LECTURERS.

Dr. R. C. Burleson, Prof. J. C. Lattimore, Hon. Pat M. Neff, Prof. Carl Lovelace, Hon. R. L. Henry, Prof. S. P. Brooks, Prof. Jas. F. Greer, Prof. W. C. Hixson.

Since 1889 the University has each year offered studies in different departments for a term of two months. The attendance last summer was 89. The phenomenal success of the movement and the increasing demand for the kind of work done, called for the following Act passed by the Board of Trustees December 21, 1897:

Resolved, That henceforth the University shall be in session during each summer for a term of eight weeks, beginning on the first Monday after the June commencement, and that this Summer Term be in very fact a regular official part of the University's annual work.

It now seems strange that earnest, ambitious people were ever deprived of educational advantages during one-fourth of each year—that part of the year in which there is least employment and which is the only time available to thousands—while expensive college buildings, libraries and laboratories lay idle.

There seems to be no good reason for suspension of a great educational institution any more than of a legal or mercantile establishment. Experience in the summer work at Baylor has proved that a student who spends eight of the twelve vacation weeks in hard study with regular habits and physical culture, will not only have left ample time for rest and general recuperation, but will be in better condition every way to enter upon the long session than he who is off during the whole summer.

The Summer Term is not a "summer normal" in the common sense, but is the University running in the summer time, with special features added for the benefit of teachers.

Full information concerning the term of 1899 may be found in the issue of the Baylor Bulletin of April 1, 1899, or may be obtained by addressing any member of the Summer Faculty.

THE SUMMER BIBLE SCHOOL

held its first session in 1897, with six professors and lecturers and an enrollment of eighty-two. Last year the teaching force was enlarged and the attendance was one hundred and sixty-seven. The length of term is four weeks of six days each. The third session will be from June 12 to July 7, inclusive, 1899.

The purpose is to do the most that can be done in that length of time, in various departments of Bible study and Christian service, for pastors, Sunday-school teachers, missionaries and other Bible students. This is regarded as one of the most important movements inaugurated by the University in recent years, and it is hoped that it may grow in magnitude and power with each succeeding year.

The tuition and incidental fee for the session is $2.

DEPARTMENT OF INSTRUCTION BY CORRESPONDENCE.

To extend the scope of the University's usefulness, to accommodate the large number who desire to advance their education but can not go to college, and to popularize higher education, the Board of Trustees, acting upon a recommendation of the Faculty, adopted on October 21, 1897, resolutions founding "a department of correspondence instruction," prescribing in detail regulations concerning it. (See Baylor Bulletin, January 1, 1898, page 11.)

All persons enrolled in this department are officially regarded as students of the University and receive credit toward a degree for the work done by correspondence. Nonresident candidates for Master's degrees will pursue their studies in this department.

THE TUITION FEES ARE AS FOLLOWS:

		Double Study	Full Study	Two-Thirds Study	Half Study
BIBLE SCHOOL	Formal Instruction	....	$10.00	$8.00	$6.00
	Informal Instruction	$5.00	$3.00	$2.50	$2.00
OTHER DEPARTMENTS.	Formal Instruction	.....	$12.50	$10.00	$8.00
	Informal Instruction	$5.00	$3.00	$2.50	$2.00

No fees are refunded, but an extension of time for the completion of work undertaken is provided for. Students may begin at any time of the year. There is no vacation and each one works independently of any class.

The studies thus far offered are as follows:

1. In English—Prof. Hargrove.

(A) American Literature.

(B) Shakespeare's Plays.

(C) The Poetry of Tennyson.

2. In Greek—Prof Harris.

(D) Demosthenes.

3. In Bible School—Prof. Tanner.

(E) The Life of Jesus.

(F) New Testament Greek. This course is for those who have done some work in Classic Greek. A course is given those who have taken up the language for the first time, but for it no credit will be given.

(G) Elements of Hebrew. For beginners.

4. In Science—Prof. Charlton.

Physiography.

Other courses will be added from time to time. Full particulars respecting any course may be had by addressing the professor in charge.

AFFILIATED SCHOOLS.

At the session of the Baptist General Convention of Texas, November 5 to 9, 1897, resolutions were adopted looking toward the unification of the various Baptist schools of Texas into a single system. For the purpose of carrying out the spirit of these resolutions, a committee was appointed with instructions to arrange a plan for the correlation of the Baptist schools of Texas and to submit the same to the respective boards of the several schools for their acceptance or rejection. After several meetings and much consultation with the several school boards, a plan was formulated for affiliating with Baylor University the other Baptist schools of the State. This plan was adopted by the five following schools: Baylor University, at Waco; Baylor Female College, at Belton; Howard Payne College, at Brownwood; Decatur College, at Decatur, and East Texas Baptist Institute, at Rusk. J. M. Carroll was elected financial manager and authorized to proceed at once to raise the sum of $212,000.00 for liquidating all of the existing debts of these schools and providing needed equipments. The work has been given further impetus by the addition of Dr. B. H. Carroll, who, on January 1, 1899, resigned his pastorate and entered upon this work. The reciprocal relations existing between these five schools and such others as may hereafter come into the system are set forth in the following:

TERMS OF AFFILIATION.

1. Each of the affiliating schools shall maintain in all of its courses of study a standard of scholarship equivalent to that maintained by the University for the same course

2. Baylor Female College shall be equipped to do full college work and confer all the usual Bachelor and Master degrees. Its point of affiliation with the University shall be in the Post Graduate degrees.

3. The other schools of the system shall be equipped to extend their work, if need be, over the course covered by the Sophomore Class in the University.

4. The Diplomas, or Certificates of Baylor College and the other schools, shall be accepted by the University without examination, to the extent of affiliated work provided for.

5. The unit of grading the several courses shall be the University Curriculum, and where the work is classed as equivalent and not identical, and the University and the affiliating school shall fail to agree thereon, then this Commission, if existing, or if not existing, some other authority, to be appointed by the Convention, shall decide.

6. That no school in this system shall be prevented from teaching any branch or branches required for a permanent State Teacher's Certificate, or such branches as book-keeping, short-hand and type-writing to meet the local demands of said schools.

CO-OPERATION WITH OTHER SCHOOLS.

In addition to the above, plans have been recently adopted whereby a system of co-operation may be established between Baylor University and the private and public high schools and colleges of Texas and adjoining states.

Several schools have already signified their desire to enter into such a system, and the Faculty will be glad to correspond with others wishing to know the terms upon which such relations may be established.

PREIDENT EMERITUS,

Rufus C. Burleson, D. D., LL.D.

Various important changes recently made in Baylor University render it desirable that a preliminary catalogue be issued for the year 1899-1900. The last annual catalogue, 1898-9, to which the present issue is supplementary, is not superseded by this preliminary catalogue, and reference is made to it for fuller information.

In spite of the disastrous floods which have devastated Central Texas and the widespread droughts which have cut short the crops throughout the State, the attendance at the University at the opening of the term surpasses that of other years both in numbers and the earnestness and maturity of the students. Students are in attendance from all sections of Texas as well as from seven other States and two foreign countries. The opportunities for instruction have been increased by the addition of twenty elective courses in Bible Study, Philosophy, Classical Philology, Modern Languages, English, Mathematics, History and Physical Science. Five changes have been made in the Faculty, full professors having been appointed in Mathematics and English Literature. The Board of Trustees have ordered steam heating apparatus to be placed in Georgia Burleson Hall, and a dining hall to be erected, thus giving to this delightful home for lady students an equipment second to none in the State.

The Second Quarter will open on Monday, the 13th of November, and the Second Term, or Spring Term, will open on Monday, January 29, 1900. Students are admitted at any time.

For catalogues, copies of the Baylor Bulletin, and other information relating to the University, address the Registrar, Mr. Eugene Wood.

19. Summer Bible School.

LATIN LANGUAGE AND LITERATURE.

PROFESSOR GREER.

The requirements for admission to this department are as follows: Three books of Caesar's Commentaries, or an equivalent; five orations of Cicero, I–IV against Catiline and the defense of Archias are preferred. It is desirable also that the student shall have read one book of Virgil. The study of the text should be accompanied by a systematic study of the Latin grammar, together with a thorough drill in Latin prose composition work based upon the authors mentioned. Daniell's Latin Prose Composition is recommended as a basis for the composition work.

The object of the instruction in this department is to lead the student progressively to a thorough understanding of the structure of the language and an appreciative acquaintance with the various departments of its literature.

In the earlier work the linguistic feature is given prominence. The forms of words, their arrangement in clauses and phrases, together with the grouping of phrases and clauses in the sentence, are emphasized. Composition work based on the authors read is required. This is varied with blackboard and oral exercises from dictation. The Roman method of pronunciation is employed in recitation.

In the later part of the course more attention is directed to the literary interpretation of the authors studied. Rapid reading of as wide a range of authors as is consistent with a thorough understanding of them, tends to lend interest and variety to this portion of the work. In translating Latin, faithfulness to the meaning of the original is insisted on, but, at the same time, the use of barbarous, or class-room English, is discouraged.

At present seven courses in Latin are offered to undergraduate students.

(A) The Epic.—Virgil.—Four books, with a study of Dactylic Hexameter, a course of reading in Roman Mythology. Required of all Freshmen. Full course. Fall term.

(B) The Roman Historians.—Livy. Portions of books I, XXI.—The preface and about sixty chapters are read. Required of all Freshmen. Full course. Spring term.

(C) The Lyrics.—Odes of Horace and Ovid's Lyrics. Careful attention is given to the meter of Horace's

Odes. Required of all Sophomores pursuing the A. B. and B. L. courses, elective for other Sophomores. Full course. Fall term.

(D) Tacitus, Agricola and Germania. The drama.—Readings from Plautus or Terence. Required of all Sophomores in A. B. course. Elective for others. Full course. Spring term.

(E) The Satire.—Readings from Juvenal and Horace. Required of all Juniors in A. B. course. Elective for others. Full course. Fall term.

(F) Virgil and Cicero.—Required of Juniors in A. B. course who do not elect Greek. Elective for all others. This course is especially adapted for teachers of Latin, and those who desire to study these authors after they have acquired the power for more appreciative reading. Full course. Spring term.

(G) A course of rapid reading from the letters of Pliny and Cicero. Elective. Full course. Spring term.

GREEK, LANGUAGE AND LITERATURE.

PROFESSOR HARRIS.

The work in this department is intended to give the student an appreciative acquaintance with the best Greek authors and inspire a love for Hellenic studies. From the beginning of the course exactness will be insisted upon, and during the Freshman year special attention will be paid to forms and the fundamental points of syntax.

In all classes reading at sight will be practiced, and English will be put into Greek, either as a set exercise or at dictation. The course is carefully graded and students are urged to take it continuously. At suitable times there will be conferences on the Literature, History, Mythology and Art of the Greeks.

By a recent action of the Faculty, Xenophon has been made a prerequisite to entrance into the Freshman class. Of those desiring to enter this class there will be required in each case an accurate knowledge of the ordinary Attic forms and the ability to read at sight easy passages in Xenophon. The work in this department embraces the following courses:

(A) Lysias. Reading of six or more selected orations, with such attention to rhetoric and style as the advancement of the student will justify; grammar; sight reading; English into Greek. Full course. Fall term.

(B) Homer. Reading of at least four books of the Iliad or Odyssey in class; others being assigned for private reading; the Hexameter; Homeric Syntax. Full course. Spring term.

(C) Plato. Study of the Protagoras or Apology and Crito in class with private reading of selected work; conferences on Greek Philosophy; style of Plato. Full course. Fall term.

(D) The Drama. The aim will be to get an appreciation for the ancient classic drama. Plays from two of the great dramatists will be read in class and others assigned for private reading. There will be lectures on meter and development of the drama. Archæology will be briefly touched upon in connection with the theater. Full course. Spring term.

(E) Oratory. (Elective for those taking N. T. Greek). Some orations of Demosthenes will be read in class and select orations from other orators assigned for private reading. Lectures will be given on the development of oratory, on Greek Rhetoric and on style. Full course. Fall term.

(F) History. Elective. The work in this will center around Thucydides, selected portions of which will be assigned for special study. Some portions of Herodotus will be read and discussed. In this course special stress will be put on the literature of the language and conferences will be held on this subject with illustrative readings. Full course. Spring term.

(G) Comedy. Elective. This course will be based on Aristophanes. Several plays will be read; the political and social conditions of Athens will be discussed. The development of the Comedy and the structure of the play will be discussed by the head of the department, or in papers prepared by members of the class. Two-thirds course.

(H) Lyric Poetry. Elective. The work in this subject will be based on the Greek Anthology (Teubner), and representative selections from the best lyric poets will be read. Dialectic forms will be discussed and the development of lyric poetry traced. Two-thirds course.

(I) Comparative Philology. Elective. This will be an elementary course in the comparative study of Greek and Latin and will be conducted mainly in lectures. One-third course.

ENGLISH LANGUAGE AND LITERATURE.

PROFESSOR LESLIE.

Instruction in this department is carried on by means of texts, broad collateral reading, essays upon assigned topics, and lectures. In all courses great stress is laid on the student's acquiring the habit of using the language correctly, both in speech and writing.

Courses (A), (B), (C) and (J) are prerequisites to all other courses.

(A) Rhetoric. Full course. Fall term. Required of all Freshmen. An advanced course in Rhetoric. Stress is laid upon carefully prepared written exercises.

(B) Rhetoric and English Literature Full course. Spring term. Required of all Freshman. A continuation of course A, combined with a cursory view of the history and development of English literature in outline. Prerequisite, course (A).

(C) English Masterpieces. Full course. Spring term after 1900. A serious study of some of the greatest English poems is made. Syle's "From Milton to Tennyson" is the text book. Attention is devoted to the various means by which the poems have been made beautiful, and to the accurate understanding of the allusions historical, mythological, and literary. The attempt is made to teach the student how to read good poetry appreciatively. This course is required of all Sophomores.

(D) Shakespere. Full course. In 1899-1900 this course will be given in the Spring term; thereafter it will be given in the Fall term. It will consist of a close study of representative plays.

(E) Anglo-Saxon. Full course. Fall term. Bright's Anglo-Saxon Reader is the text book followed. The student's attention is constantly directed to the origin and development of the common words now in our language. Prerequisites, German (A) and (B).

(F) Earlier American Literature. Two-thirds course. Fall term. Pancoast's Introduction to American Literature is supplemented by lectures and collateral reading. Students are also required to write essays.

(G) Later American Literature. Full course. Spring term. Particular reference will be had to the literature of the South. In general the method will be similar to that of course (F).

(H) Chaucer. Two-thirds course. Spring term of 1901. Prerequisite course (E). The more important poems of Chaucer will be read and interpreted, and the other poems will be discussed in connection with the poet's biography. Particular reference will be had to Chaucer's inflection, syntax, versification and poetic art, and especially his method in narrative poetry.

(I) Milton. Full course. Fall term. An intensive study will be made of a part of Paradise Lost, and the remainder of the poem will be read rapidly. Other poems will be treated briefly.

(J) English Composition. Full course. Fall term. Prescribed for all Sophomores. This course will be given in the Spring of 1900, and will be prescribed for all Sophomores and Juniors. The written work of this course will be supplemented with a study of standard specimens of prose composition and of the principles of narration, description, exposition, and argument. Prerequisites, courses (A) and (B).

(K) Romantic Poets. Two-thirds course. Spring term. This course will be given in the Spring of 1901, and will alternate with course (P). Prerequisites, courses (A) to (D) The course will consist of a study of the best poetical work of Wordsworth, Coleridge, Scott, Byron, Shelly, and Keats.

(L) English Prose. Full course. Spring term. Prerequisites, courses (A), (B), and (J), and two of the following: (F), (G), (N), and (O). This course will consist of an analytical study, according to the laboratory method, of the leading writers of English prose, from Francis Bacon to Holmes. The text-book will be Prof. J. Scott Clark's "A Study of English Prose Writers."

(M) Spenser. Full course. Fall term. This course will be offered in the fall of 1900 and will alternate with course (E). In general the method will be similar to that of course (H).

(N) English Literature of the Eighteenth Century. Two-thirds course. Fall term of 1900. This course will deal with Swift, Addison, Steele, Defoe, Pope, Johnson, Burke, Goldsmith, Gray, Cowper, Thomson, and Burns. In general the method will be similar to that in course (F). This course will alternate with course (O).

(O) English Literature of the Nineteenth Century. Two-thirds course. Fall term. This course will deal with the leading English writers of the Nineteenth Century. The method will be similar to that of courses (F) and (G).

(P) Victorian Poets. Two-thirds course. Spring term. Prerequisites, course (A) to (D) and (J). This course will consist of a study of the best poetical works of the Victorian Era, and will have special reference to the poetry of Tennyson, Arnold, Browning and Kipling.

(Q) English Seminary. Full course, meeting once a week throughout the year. Prerequisites, courses (A) to (P), or any equivalent. The work of the Seminary will consist of a close study of the life and writings of a selected author. For 1899-1900 the author is Thomas Carlyle. This course involves the preparation of a thesis.

Courses (D), (F), (G), (K), (M), and (Q) are offered by formal correspondence.

MODERN LANGUAGES.

PROFESSORS GREER, HARRIS AND LESLIE.

The courses in this department have been arranged with three aims:

1. To give the student a reading knowledge of the language.
2. To enable the student, as far as possible, to speak the language.
3. To give a knowledge of the literature of each country as gained through a study of its language.

There are four courses offered in German, the first two of these being required for B. S. or B. L., the others elective for those taking French.

The equivalent of two courses in German is prerequisite to entrance into the Freshman class in this department.

In French four courses are offered, all elective. For B. S. and B. L., French (A) and (B) may be offered in lieu of German (C) and (D).

In Spanish four courses are offered as electives.

In Italian two courses are at present offered as electives.

GERMAN.

(A) Grammar and Composition completed. "Immensee," Storm, and "Undine," Fouque. Sight reading from Klee's "Heldensagen." Schiller's "Der Neffe Als Onkel." Conversation. Full course. Fall term.

(B) "Minna Von Barnhelm," Lessing. "Die Jungfrau von Orleans," Schiller. "Deutsche Gedichte," Klenze. "Hermann und Dorothea," Goethe. Special topics and conversation. Full course. Spring term.

(C) "Aus dem Leben Eines Taugenichts," Eichendorf. "Maria Stewart," Schiller. Poems, selected. "Ekkehard," Scheffel. Essays and reviews, prepared in German. Elective. Open only to those who have taken course (B). Full course. Fall term.

(D) "Faust," Goethe. Modern prose writers, with especial regard to historic novels. Special topics and reviews. Elective. Open only to those who have taken course (C). Full course. Spring term.

FRENCH.

(A) Muzzarelli's First French Course, "Easy French Readings." Fisher. Careful drills in translation. Special attention to pronunciation and composition. Full course. Fall term

(B) Academic Course begun. Telemaque—three books, with extracts and resumes of remaining books. Memory drills. Sight reading. Poems, selected from Alfred de Musset, Hugo, Racine, Gautier, Voltaire, Lamartine, De La Vinge and Chenier. "Pierre et Camille," Alfred de Musset. Conversation. Full course. Spring term.

(C) Academic Course completed. "Iphigenie," and "Esther," Racine. "Paul et Virginie," St. Pierre. "Charlotte Corday," Ponsard. "La Mare au Diable,"

George Sand. Conversation and special topics. Full course. Fall term.

(D) "L'Abbe Constantine," Halevy. "Les Miserables," Hugo. "Merope," Voltaire. "Le Cid," Corneille. "Le Mari de Mme. Solange." Emile Souvestre. Special topics, reviews and essays. Full course. Sping term.

SPANISH.

(A) DeTorno's Combined Spanish method. Full course. Fall term.

(B) Same with Reader. Full course. Spring term.

(C) Reading selections from modern Spanish authors. Grammar (Knapp). Full course. Fall term.

(D) Dona Perfecta, Benito Perez Galdos. Full course. Spring term.

The work in Spanish is wholly elective.

ITALIAN.

(A) Grandgent's Italian Grammar, with selections from contemporary Italian prose. Full course. Fall term. Elective to Seniors, who have completed all the work offered in Latin and French.

(B) Italian literature of the Sixteenth Century. Representative selections of prose and poetry of this classic period will be read. Particular attention will be paid to Ariosto, Tasso and Machiavelli. Lectures. Full course. Spring term. Prerequisite, course (A).

NATURAL SCIENCES.

PROFESSOR CHARLTON.
MR. BATTLE, Assistant.

CHEMISTRY.

(A) Williams' Elements of Chemistry with Laboratory work. Full course. Fall term. Repeated during Spring term.—Mr. Battle.

(B) Qualitative analysis and lectures. Includes brief course of blowpipe work on minerals. Full course. Spring term.—Mr. Battle.

PHYSICS.

Prerequisite, Trigonometry.

(A) Mass Physics. I. Kinematics. II. Dynamics. III. Work and Energy. IV. Attractive and Potential. V. Properties of Matter. VI. Sound.

Molecular Physics. Heat. Full course. Spring term.

(B) Physics of the Ether. I. Radiant Energy. II. Electrostatics. III. Magnetism. IV. Current Electricity. Full course. Fall term. Text, Hastings and Beach.

ZOOLOGY.

(A) Invertebrate Zoology with laboratory work Two-thirds course. Fall term.

(B) Vertebrate Zoology with laboratory work. Two-thirds course. Spring term.

(C) Mammalian Anatomy with Lectures. Two-thirds course. Fall term.

BOTANY.

(A) Elementary Botany with laboratory work on the flowering plants and lectures on the physiology of plants. Full course. Spring term.

(B) I. Short course in Ecology. II. Laboratory work in Cryptogamic Botany with lectures. Full course. Fall term.

GEOLOGY.

(A) Using LeConte's Elements. To each member of the class will be assigned a special topic for investigation. Full course Fall term.

LECTURES ON GEOGRAPHY.

Twenty lectures on geography, elective for collegiate students. Students taking the course and passing an examination thereon will receive credit for one-third course. Fall term.

An advanced course in Physical Geography is offered by informal correspondence.

Three hours of laboratory work may at any time be required instead of one recitation.

Students will be charged the actual cost of materials used in laboratory work and for breakage.

The chemical laboratory is fitted up with suitable tables, supplied with gas, water, bowls, waste-pipes, Bunsen burners, and chemicals for the use of students in General Chemistry and Qualitative Analysis.

In both Zoology and Botany use is made of compound microscopes, and full notes and detail drawings are required. Ample facilities are provided for the complete dissection of plants and typical animals, such as the cat, pigeon, turtle and starfish.

PHYSICAL GEOGRAPHY.

(A) Advanced course. Students taking this course should have a good knowledge of Chemistry and Physics.

Other courses will be added from time to time. Full particulars respecting any course may be had by addressing the professor in charge.

MATHEMATICS.

PROFESSOR JOHNSON.

(A) Higher Algebra. Full course. Fall term. Scales of numeration; permutations and combinations; binomial theorem with any index; convergency and divergency of series with special attention to logarithmic, exponential, and power series; continued fractions; and the theory of equations. (After 1899-1900 this course will be given in the Spring term).

(B) Solid Geometry. Much stress is put on accuracy, throughness, original work, and right conceptions of Pure Geometry. Full course. Spring term. (After 1899-1900 this course will be given in Fall term).

(C) Plane and Spherical Trigonometry. Full course. Fall term. Derivation of formulae, with applications of the principles of Plane Trigonometry to Navigation and Surveying and of Spherical Trigonometry to elementary problems of the celestial sphere. This course includes the theory and calculation of logarithms, De Moive's theorem, trigonometric series construction of tables of natural sines, cosines, etc., and tables of logarithmic sines, cosines, etc.

(D) Surveying. Two-thirds course. Spring term. Field work; land surveying; use of the compass and surveyor's transit; construction of verniers and determination and correction of instrumental errors; leveling and topography; determination of grade lines, cut and fill, and triangulation.

Office work: Plotting surveys; map-drawing, plane and topographical; calculation of areas; and enlargement of maps.

(E) Analytical Geometry. Full course. Spring term. The ordinary topics of Analytical Geometry will be supplemented by lectures on systems of conics, map-projection, and machines for the construction of the straight line, circle, ellipse, parabola. After 1899-1900 this course will run two hours both terms.

(F) Differential and Integral Calculus. Full course. Fall term. Thorough study of the fundamental theorems of the Calculus will be insisted on. Considerable work on surface and volume integrals required. Lectures on the theory of definite integrals. After this year this course will run two hours both terms.

(G) Astronomy. Fall term. Full course. Young's General Astronomy will be used as a basis for work. Special attention given to the mathematical work.

(H) Mechanics. Spring term. Full course. The elementary principles of Statics, Kinematics, and Kinetics with application to rigid bodies.

(I) Theory of Equations. Fall term. Two-thirds course. Besides ordinary topics, this course includes a study of Invariants, Covariants, and Eliminants. Burnside and Panton's Theory of Equations will be used. Prerequisites, courses (A) and (C).

(J) Geometry of Three Dimensions. Spring term Full course. Conicoids, twisted curves, and curves on surfaces. General theory of surfaces. C. Smith's Solid Geometry will be used as a text book, but frequent reference will be made to Salmon and to Frost. Prerequisites, courses (E) and (F).

(K) Higher Plane Curves. Both terms. One-third course. Applications of the Calculus to curves of the 3rd and 4th degree. Newton's lines of the third order.

Salmon's Higher Plane Curves. Prerequisites, courses (E), (F) and (I).

(L) Advanced Integral Calculus. Both terms. Two hours. Theory of definite integrals; Beta and Gamma functions; Fourier Series; Elliptic Integrals and Functions; Differential Equations. Prerequisites, courses (E) and (F).

(M) Theory of Functions of a Complex Variable. Both terms. One hour. Theorems of Cauchy, Riemann and Weierstrass. Courses (L) and (M) will alternate yearly. Prerequisites, courses (E) and (F).

(N) Vector Analysis. Both terms. One hour. Elementary problems of Geometry, Kinematics and Mechanics are treated by Vector methods. The matter taught is similar to what is usually given in courses on Quaternions, but the Vector method of Prof. Gibbs, which in some respects is like that of Grassmann, is used. Prerequisites, courses (E) and (F).

ECONOMICS AND HISTORY.

PROFESSOR BROOKS.

ECONOMICS.

(A) Political Economy. In this course Hadley's Economics will be studied. Frequent lectures by the instructor, and reports on assigned topics by the class. Required for all Juniors. Full course. Fall term.

(B) Public Finance. Recitations and lectures. Includes taxation with special reference to its incidence, financial administration and public debts. Much written work on assigned topics. Two-thirds course. Not offered in 1899-1900 but alternating with course (C) thereafter.

(C) History and Theory of Banking. This course is intended to acquaint the student with the financial history of the United States. A study of State and National banks; a review of financial panics as related to banking. Two-thirds course. Spring term.

(D) Jurisprudence. An elementary study of the origin and historical development of the State; structure and function of the modern State; origin and growth of customary law. The object of this study is to teach students the fundamental laws of equity common to all civilized nations, and to prepare thoughtful young men and women for a proper realization of good citizenship. Two-thirds course. Fall term.

(E) Social Science. An elementary study of society, the origin of civilization and the growth of social institutions. Only advanced students should take this subject. Full course. Fall term.

(F) Constitutional Government. A study of American government, Federal and State. Helpful to prospective law students. Full course. Not offered in 1899-1900, but alternates with course (G) thereafter.

(G) English Constitution. This study bears the same relation to the English government that course (F) does to the American. Full course. Spring term.

HISTORY.

(H) English History. Class work, lectures, collateral reading. Two-thirds course. Fall term.

(I) American History. Advanced course. A study of the political changes and the causes that produced them. Much outside reading required, and class report on the same. Two-thirds course. Spring term.

(J) Greek History. Recitations, lectures. Some time will be devoted to the historical events leading up to this period, as seen in the more ancient nations. Full course. Fall term.

(K) Roman History. For mode of study see Greek History. Full course. Spring term.

(L) Protestant Reformation. A careful study of the men and the times that produced it. Library reading and class reports. Especially helpful to preachers and others interested in religious movements. Two-thirds course. Fall term.

(M) French Revolution. Critically studied. An acquaintance with the social, economical and religious changes in France from 1789 to 1815. Two-thirds course. Spring term

(N) Constitutional and Political History of the United States. This is a serious study of the history of the constitution and that of political parties in America. All are expected to prepare reports showing the results of independent research. Full course. Spring term.

(O) Medieval Europe. A study of the period that lies between ancient and modern history. An effort to follow the religious, intellectual and political development of the so-called dark ages. Full course. Spring term.

(P) Current Events. The object of this course is not to lead the student away from history that is past and fixed, but rather to teach him to appreciate the past by the present He must learn to save time in the search for events and to discriminate in the material found. Except by special permission from the teacher in charge only Juniors and Seniors will be allowed to elect this course. The members of the class will be expected to provide themselves with several leading magazines and by an interchange of these the field will become larger to each student. Two-thirds course. Spring term.

Other courses will be offered in the Department of Economics and History at the opening of the session of 1900-1901.

PHILOSOPHY.

PROFESSOR TANNER.

This department, formerly conducted by President Burleson, and later divided between the professors, has been reorganized under the present administration and assigned to Prof. Tanner. The scope of instruction, enlarged by the addition of courses (E) and (F), embraces the following:

(A) Logic. Since it deals with the laws that must prevail in all right thinking in all departments of truth, Logic has not without reason been called the "Science of sciences." But its educational value is held as the chief object in view. The course is divided into two parts: (1) Deductive Logic, including the Term, the Proposition, the Syllogism and Method, engages the class for ten weeks. The text book, Jevons' Elementary Lessons, is supplemented by parallel reading and the professor's notes. (2) The second half the term is spent on Induction; Fowler's Inductive Logic being used as a text. Required of all juniors. Full course. Fall term.

(B) Psychology. This is a somewhat advanced course in Psychology—more from the Philosophical than the Psychological point of view. Ladd's Outlines of Descriptive Psychology is the text book, which is supplemented by reading from other authors, special papers by members of the class and discussion conducted by the professor. Required of all Juniors. Full course. Spring term.

(C) Ethics. The course is intended to subserve both intellectual and moral ends. By making and mastering an elaborate analysis of the subject, the student is trained in the analytic method of study. A general survey is made of the leading theories and schools of moralists. The principal aim, however, is to have the members of the class conscientiously and fearlessly grapple with the moral principles and issues of human life, and to construct each for himself his system of moral truth. Each one is required to prepare a paper upon a theme connected with the study, showing ability in independent thinking. Required of Seniors. Full course Fall term.

(D) Apologetics. This is a serious, thorough course, adapted to minds disciplined in the use of moral and historical evidence. It consists of two parts: (1) The Grounds of Theistic and Christian Belief, embracing a study of all the arguments usually presented and some others. The text book is supplemented with parallel reading of other authors and the preparation of papers. (2) A Comparative study of the World's Leading Religions, showing the relative character and claims of Christianity. Required of all Seniors. Full course. Spring term.

(E) History of Philosophy. The course is a general survey of the history of speculative thought in Europe and America from Thales to the present time. Special attention will be given to representative men and theories to the extent of the time allotted. Elective. Full course. Fall term.

(F) Metaphysics. Using Bowne's Theory of Thought and Knowledge and his Metaphysics as the text, the class will make as thorough study as practicable of Epistemology, Ontology, Cosmology, and Philosophic Psychology. Elective. Full course. Spring term. (Not offered during '99-1900).

THE BIBLE SCHOOL.

DOCTOR CARROLL, PROFESSOR TANNER AND DOCTOR MCGAHA.

THE PURPOSE

is three-fold: (1) To train for a more efficient ministry the young men commended to us by the churches as called of God to preach—to stimulate many to take a full theological course, to prepare these for more profitable work in the Seminary, and to help so far as we can the larger number who cannot get to the Seminary.

(2) To equip young people of both sexes for better service in all departments of church activity. (3) To popularize the intelligent study of God's word. We believe the Bible to be the best of classics—its systematic study an indispensable part of a liberal education—its precepts the fountain of law and the conservator of society—its promises the hope of the world.

THE WORK

is all elective, requires as much time and study as that of other departments, and with one exception receives the same credit.

DR. CARROLL—

(A) A study of the English of both Testaments, attempting instruction not so much in things about the Bible, as in the Bible itself, and a correlation of its cardinal truths into a system of doctrine and discipline. In this course the entire Bible is covered in four years. Two hours a week throughout the year. For this work, necessarily irregular at times, no credit is given toward a degree.

PROF. TANNER—

(B) Old Testament History.—Full course. Fall term. Given 1899-1900 and alternate years.

(C) Old Testament Prophecy and Poetry.—Full course. Spring term. Given same year as (B).

(D) The Life of Our Lord.—Harmony of the Gospels; interpretation; collateral reading. Full course. Fall term. Given 1900-'01 and alternate years.

(E) The Apostolic Age.—Harmony of the Acts and the Epistles with special interpretation of the latter. Full course. Spring term. Given same years as (D).

(F) New Testament Greek.—(Course I.)—Etymology; words that occur in New Testament over twenty-five times; critical reading of Mark; sight-reading of John. Prerequisite—Classic Greek (A) and B). Full course. Fall term.

(G) New Testament Greek.—(Course II.)—Syntax; words that occur over ten times; critical reading of Luke; sight-reading of Matthew. Prerequisite—(F). Full course. Spring term.

(H) New Testament Exegesis.—Letter to the Romans. Prerequisite—(F) and (G). Full course. Spring term. Given 1900-'01 and alternate years.

(I) Elements of Hebrew.—(Course I.)—For beginners. Full course. Fall term. Given 1899-1900 and alternate years.

(J) Elements of Hebrew.—(Course II.)—Grammar; most frequent words; critical reading. Prerequisite—(I). Full course. Spring term. Given same years as (I).

In courses (F), (G), (I) and (J) one additional hour is spent with the professor in review and sight reading.

(K) Hebrew Exegesis.—Select Psalms. Prerequisite—(I) and (J). Full course. Fall term. Given same years as (H).

DR. MCGAHA—

(L) Pastoral Ministry.—Text book; lectures; personal work. Two-thirds course. Spring term. Open to ministerial students only.

PREPARATORY DEPARTMENT.

The Preparatory Department of Baylor University, or the Baylor University Academy, offers unusual advantages to students who are unable to enter upon collegiate work. Such students have the advantages of large and enthusiastic classes, the instruction of the regular professors in the college work, daily contact with students of higher attainments, benefits of all chapel lectures and exercises, the libraries, admirable training in the literary societies, and also other opportunities for improvement which can be found by academic students nowhere else in the State.

COURSE OF STUDY—Preparatory Department.

JUNIOR PREPARATORY CLASS.

FALL TERM.	SPRING TERM.
Latin—First Book through Declensions and Conjugations. English—Grammar. Selected Classics. History—Our Country. Mathematics—Arithmetic to Percentage. Special—Geography, Spelling, Writing.	Latin—First Book Completed. English—Selected Classics. Composition Writing based on Classics read. History and Civics—Texas History (10 weeks). Civil Government (10 weeks). Mathematics—Arithmetic thro'h Percentage, Proportion and Square Root. Special—Geography, Spelling, Writing.

MIDDLE PREPARATORY CLASS—FALL TERM.

STUDIES LEADING TOWARD A. B. DEGREE.	STUDIES LEADING TOWARD B. S. AND B. L. DEGREES.
Latin—Viri Romae and Latin Grammar. English—American Masterpieces. Composition and Rhetoric. History—General. Mathematics—School Algebra through Factors and Multiples.	Latin—Viri Romae and Latin Grammer. English—Composition and Rhetoric. History—General. Drawing—Elements of (Elective). Mathematics—School Algebra through Factors and Multiples.

MIDDLE PREPARATORY CLASS—SPRING TERM.

A. B. STUDIES.	B. S. AND B. L. STUDIES.
Latin—Cæsar and Latin Composition. Greek—First Book. Science—Physiology (10 weeks). Physical Geography (10 w'ks) History—General, Completed. Mathematics—School Algebra, through Quadratic Equations.	Latin—Cæsar and Latin Composition. Science—Physiology (10 weeks). Physical Geography (10 w'ks) History—General, Completed. Bookkeeping—High School Course (Elective). Mathematics—School Algebra through Quadratic Equations.

SENIOR PREPARATORY CLASS—FALL TERM.

A. B. STUDIES.	B. S. AND B. L. STUDIES.
Latin—Cæsar continued thro'h 4 books. Cicero's 1st and 2d Orations Against Catiline. Greek—First Book Completed. Xenophon, one book. Science—Physics. Mathematics—School Algebra Completed. Plane Geometry, 2 books. Arithmetic Completed.	Latin—Cæsar through 4 books. Cicero's 1st and 2d Orations Against Catiline. German—Ahn's Course for Beginners. Science—Physics. Mathematics—School Algebra Completed. Plane Geometry, 2 books. Arithmetic Completed.

SENIOR PREPARATORY CLASS—SPRING TERM.

A. B. STUDIES.	A. B. AND B. L. STUDIES.
Latin—Cicero's 3d and 4th Orations against Catiline. Defence of Archias. (Virgil's Aeneid, one book. Required after Session 1899-1900.) Greek—Xenophon, 4 books. Exercises in Greek Composition. English—Scott's Kenilworth, Silas Marner, Emerson's Essays, Compositions monthly. Mathematics—School Algebra Reviewed. Arithmetic Reviewed. Plane Geometry Completed.	Latin—Cicero's 3d and 4th Orations Against Catiline. Defense of Archias. Virgil's Aeneid, one book. (After 1899-1900.) German—Joynes-Meissner, Anderson's Mærchen. English—Scott's Kenilworth, Silas Marner, Emerson's Essays, Compositions monthly. Mathematics—School Algebra Reviewed. Arithmetic Reviewed. Plane Geometry Completed.

DEPARTMENT OF ELOCUTION.

MISS HEATH.

The time required to complete the course in Elocution is from two to three years. Pupils are required to pursue the subject continuously and to pass satisfactory examination in this department.

THE COURSE OF STUDY.

Physical Culture, Vocal Physiology, Vocal Technique, Economy of Breath, Method of Delivery, Vocal Hygiene, Defects of Speech, Articulation and Pronunciation, Modulation, Inflection, Emphasis, Pitch, Quantity and Movement, Qualities, Application of Tone Effects, Analysis, Gesticulation, Action and Repose, Physical Expression, Readings and Recitations of Selections from the best Authors—Dramatic, Pathetic, Declamatory, Humorous.

A pupil holding a diploma from this school under the present teacher will be entitled to enter the Senior class at the New England Conservatory, College of Oratory, Boston, Mass.

SCHOOL OF MUSIC.

PROFESSOR SCHAUS, DIRECTOR.

MISS MCGOWN, MISS RANDALL,
Piano.

MISS ANDERSON, Vocal.

PIANO DEPARTMENT.

The course of studies for Piano begins with the easier exercises of Koehler, Brauer, Mathews, Loeschhorn, Czerny and Bertini, and imparts thorough instruction in the primary principles of piano playing, leading step by step into the more difficult and advanced studies and etudes by Cramer, Moscheles, Clementi, Bach and Henselt, and finally takes up the great compositions of our classic and romantic writers, including the works of Mozart, Beethoven, Chopin, Liszt, Raff, Rubinstein, Paderewski, and others. The course is divided into six grades, and throughout Faelton's, Mason's, Doerner's and Tausig's daily exercises and studies are used as foundation work to all technical achievements, in furtherance of which the "Virgil Practice Clavier," to which all pupils have free access, proves of special value. Besides their regular lessons, pupils are required to practice at least one hour daily; more time for study will depend on the individuality of the student, as to talent, mental and physical development, etc., but, before passing into a higher grade, students must attain the skill and excellence possible in the preceding grade.

From the rich literature of piano-forte music, we make such choice selections of solos, duets, quartets, etc., in keeping with the respective grade, as are best suited to give zest to the pupil's labors, to encourage her efforts, and also to serve as program numbers in our recitals and entertainments.

VIOLIN DEPARTMENT.

Throughout the six grades in this course special attention is given to correct position, pure and noble tone production, and ensemble playing. The course is as follows:

First Grade.—Schubert's Violin Method, I. Vol.; Blumenthal's Easy Duets; Hering's Op. 66; Duets by Gebauer.

Second Grade.—Schubert's II. Vol.; Pleyel's Violin Duos; Zanger's Easy Duets and Trios; Hauptmann's First Sonatas.

Third Grade.—Schubert's III. Vol.; Etudes by Dancla, Mazas and Kayser; Duos and Trios by Gruenwald; selections.

Fourth Grade.—Etudes by Dancla, Mazas and Fiorillo; Studies by Dont and Viotti.

Fifth Grade.—Schubert's IV. Vol; Forty Studies by Kreutzer; Caprices by Rhode, David and Hauser; Program-pieces by Raff, Wieniawski, David and De Beriot.

Sixth Grade.—Sixty Studies and Caprices by Paganini; Bach's and Beethoven's Sonatas; Concertos by De Beriot, Joachim, Brahms, etc.

VOCAL DEPARTMENT.

In this department high grade advantages are offered. While the voice is being carefully trained the student is being instructed in sight-singing, and in that which is most difficult and rarely attained in Music—true expression.

The training of the voice embraces a course of four grades, which a student of average ability may complete in three years, and is as follows:

First Grade.—Lessons in Physiology of the Voice and the Organs of Respiration; Exercises for Developing Medium Voice, Chest Voice, Head Voice; Practice for Uniting Medium, Head and Chest; Light Ballads.

Second Grade.—Practice of Slow Scale, Rapid Scales, Arpeggios; The Turn, Vocal Technique, Italian and English Songs.

Third Grade.—Scales, Solfeggi, Trill; Chromatic Scales, Luetgen Exercises, Books I and II; Marchesi's Vocalises, Op. 15, Book III; selections from the Italian, German and English Songs and Operas.

Fourth Grade.—Study of Oratorio, Handel, Hayden, Mendelssohn; Italian Arias; Marchesi's Twelve Studies in Style, English and German Songs.

We feel the importance of a well-rounded musical education; and, therefore, we offer a two-years' course in Sight Singing, and continuous work in Vocal Physiology and Correct Breathing.

THEORY AND SIGHT SINGING.

A class in Sight Singing is formed at the beginning of each session, and students are allowed to progress as rapidly as practicable. Special attention is given to the theory of music, and the student is taught to read at sight in all keys and measures. This class meets twice a week This is a drill that no vocal student can afford to miss, and it is also of very great importance to young ministers in their life-work.

THEORY AND HISTORY OF MUSIC.

Such subjects of modern tonality as Tones, Notations, Diatonic, Chromatic and Enharmonic Scales: Intervals; Inversion; Major and Minor Modes, Transposition, etc., are elaborately treated by explanations and blackboard exercises. The history of the lives and works of prominent composers of the classic and romantic schools. Essays by pupils. These lessons and lectures are given weekly during the entire school year, and all pupils are admitted free to this class.

HARMONY.

Special attention is called to the importance of this study; for in order to become a good musician it is absolutely necessary to know the construction of the composition to be interpreted. Text books: Feye, Richter and Goodrich. Teachers who intend to graduate are required to pursue this study for at least two years

---

ART DEPARTMENT.

MRS. EMMA HUMPHREYS.

First Year.—Use of charcoal, pencil and crayon in drawing from the flat and from objects. Outline and shaded studies from the features.

Second Year.—Drawing from casts, studies from features, hands, feet, busts, etc. Painting from still life in pastel, water color and oil.

Third Year.—Drawing and Painting from life and from nature. Drawing from the antique.

Special Class.—China painting.

All art students are recommended to study at least one of the modern languages, as every one who studies art with seriousness expects to go abroad at some time.

A course of art reading is also provided. New books are added yearly to the art library. The work of the students will be exhibited at the close of the year.

MILITARY DEPARTMENT.

WADDEY W. BATTLE, COMMANDANT OF CADETS.

COURSE OF INSTRUCTION.

PRACTICAL PART —EACH YEAR.—(THREE HOURS A WEEK.)

Drills in the schools of the soldier, company and battalion, both in close and extended order, inspection, review, military gymnastics, military signaling, artillery drill and target practice with Springfield cadet rifles.

THEORETICAL PART —FIRST YEAR.—(ONE HOUR A WEEK).

Recitations in Infantry Drill Regulations in the school of the soldier, the school of the company, the school of the battalion, bayonet exercise, fire discipline, the extended order drill for the squad, platoon, company and battalion, advance and rear guard, outposts, marches, camping, battalion review, guard mounting, battalion parade and battalion inspection.

THEORETICAL PART.—SECOND YEAR.—(ONE HOUR A WEEK.)

Review of the first year's course, and a course in the Art and Science of War, embracing a critical study of "Elementary Principles Connected with the Science of War," "Manual of Courts Martial," "Points in Minor Tactics," "Manual of Guard Duty," "Notes on Military Science," and kindred publications authorized by the war department.

CERTIFICATE OF PROFICIENCY.

To secure the Certificate of Proficiency in Military Science and Tactics, the student must take the practical course and the two years' theoretical course, and must stand semi-annual written examinations on the latter course, passing each with a grade of at least seventy per cent. These Certificates are signed by the President and the Commandant of Cadets, and they exempt Cadets from further work in the theoretical course

CREDIT GIVEN FOR MILITARY COURSE.

Military drill has been added to the regular course of instruction, and will be placed to the student's credit in making up the requirements for graduation—a year of military drill being accepted as the equivalent of a two-thirds course of study.

SUMMER TERM OF THE UNIVERSITY.

This term, which has been offered since 1889, will continue two months from the 18th of June, 1900, until the 10th of August, 1900. Instruction will be given by the University Faculty, and will constitute a part of the regular college work. By a resolution adopted by the Board of Trustees on December 21, 1897, it was ordered that "the Summer Term be in very fact a regular official part of the University annual work." Full announcement of the next session will be made in an early issue of the Baylor Bulletin. The attendance this year was 95.

SUMMER BIBLE SCHOOL.

The first session of this school of the University was held in 1897, with six professors and lecturers and an enrollment of 82. Each year the teaching force has been enlarged, and last year the official registration was as follows:

Ordained preachers	73
Licensed preachers	32
Men not licensed	13
Bible women and other ladies	52
Children	105
Total students	275
Teachers and lecturers	18
Grand total	293

The length of the term is four weeks of six days each. The fourth annual session will open on the 14th of June, 1900. The purpose is to do the most that can be done in that length of time in various departments of Bible study and Christian service for pastors, Sunday school teachers, missionaries and other Bible students. The profound interest manifested, and the rapid growth of the Summer Bible School, show that it is meeting a need of very great importance. The tuition and incidental fees for the session are $2.50.
